Campus Scenes Undergo Change

This was to be the last year that the Highland Park campus would retain the appearance familiar to graduates since the building was originally constructed in 1936.

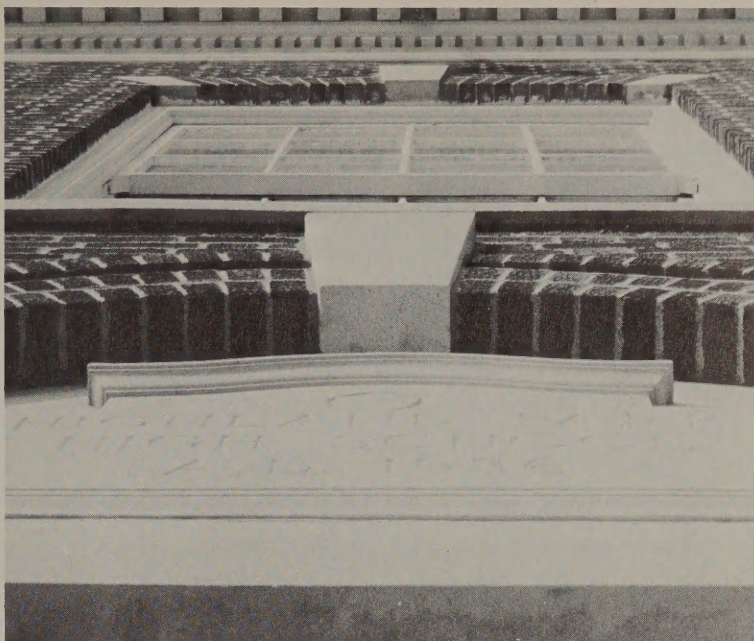

Giant mechanical gophers were soon to tear up the front lawn to begin construction of two new wings that would house the ninth grade.

THE WEST GYM, center of girls' sports and school dances, reflects quiet stillness before the school day begins.

AN EMPTY POPCORN box offers a mute reminder of the crowds that have cheered for the Scots.

THOUSANDS OF STUDENTS have passed through the main door of Highland Park High School. Some of them are now parents of currently enrolled Scots.

SOON TO BE changed, the familiar building of Highland Park High School has maintained this appearance since 1936.

This Was the Year When . . .

. . . almost 71 million voters elected Richard Nixon as the 37th President of the United States . . .

. . . when Apollo 8 circled the moon . . .

. . . when the United States won 45 gold medals in the Olympic games in Mexico City, setting new records.

. . . when Jacqueline Kennedy startled the world by wedding Greek tycoon Aristotle Onassis . . .

These and other events of global magnitude made history . . .

Scots Vote Miss Carol Hooper Dedicatee

No student fortunate enough to have had Miss Carol Hooper for a teacher could share Henry Ford's famous conviction that "history is bunk." Those individuals who entered her classroom with a preconceived distaste for American history soon changed their opinions under the stimulating instruction of this dedicated teacher.

Born in Fort Worth and reared in Farmersville, Texas, Miss Hooper received both her B.A. and M.A. degrees from Southern Methodist University. Before coming to Highland Park in 1964 she taught at Thomas Jefferson High School in Dallas. Decoupage and travel are two of her main interests. In addition to her teaching responsibilities, she serves as sponsor for the newly-formed Events Club.

As teacher for the Advanced Placement American history course, introduced into the curriculum last year, stressing student participation and class discussion, she guided 17 juniors through a challenging and thorough college-level course.

In recognition of her excellent teaching skills and of her sincere interest in her students, the senior class of 1969 dedicates this edition of the Highlander to Miss Carol Hooper.

This was the year when Scots changed with the seasons as fall brought the beginning of school and computer scheduling, winter, the holidays, and spring, senior activities and final exams for all sophomores and juniors.

ACTIVITIES

Scots Travel Abroad, Do Volunteer Work

WARM SUMMER NIGHTS encourage seniors Kathy Saunders, Missy Childs, and Louise Bush to super-slide.

Anxious for additional income, and confronted with an abundance of summer hours, Scots toiled in all types of jobs, from gravedigging to book-keeping.

Because of a desire and need for additional study, 676 sophomores, juniors, and seniors returned to HP for the summer term. Memorizing the keyboard and preparing term themes occupied many students' mornings, as typing, government, and American history proved the most popular subjects.

More adventurous Scots, traveling abroad with families and in church and student study groups, visited such diverse places as Greece, Spain, France, and the Soviet Union. HP students again frequented Six Flags Over Texas for employment as well as amusement.

Many students volunteered for church and civic-sponsored programs to aid underprivileged children. Members of Highland Park Presbyterian Church and the Church of the Incarnation worked in OLE', Operation Life Encounter. Still others participated in service programs for Latin-American children at community centers in West Dallas.

Early in August, Scot footballers returned to the pads and began polishing their plays in preparation for the coming season.

Computer Confusion Bewilders HP Scots

PROGRAM V-P's Diane Cory and Alan Kutner anticipate the results of the Hi-Lite beauty contest at the first meeting of the year.

While one student pondered the most effective way to employ six study halls, another wondered how he could ever manage calculus, chemistry, physics, trig, Latin, and English without even a lunch period.

Beginning this year, computers replaced the old methods of compiling students' schedules. Mistakes made in programming the computers resulted in a number of incorrect schedules. Long lines of dissatisfied students necessitated many days and even nights spent in effecting schedule changes.

To welcome sophomores and transfer students to Hi Park, the Student Council and Hi-Lites designed the second week of school as "Howdy Week" and co-sponsored a dance held in the girls' gym after the Paschal game. Highlandaires officers honored new members with an afternoon tea, and the Hi-Lites and orchestra opened the school year with picnics.

Feasting on a catered barbecue dinner, HP Lassies and band members met at Bachman Lake for their annual picnic. To conclude the evening, new director Mr. Robert Jordan installed the 1968-'69 officers.

With the theme of "Haunted House," Lads and Lassies, disguised as black cats, witches, and ghosts, held their picnic at Lee Park.

MEMBERS OF THE "Up With People" cast encourage Scots to attend their State Fair performance by giving an excerpt of it.

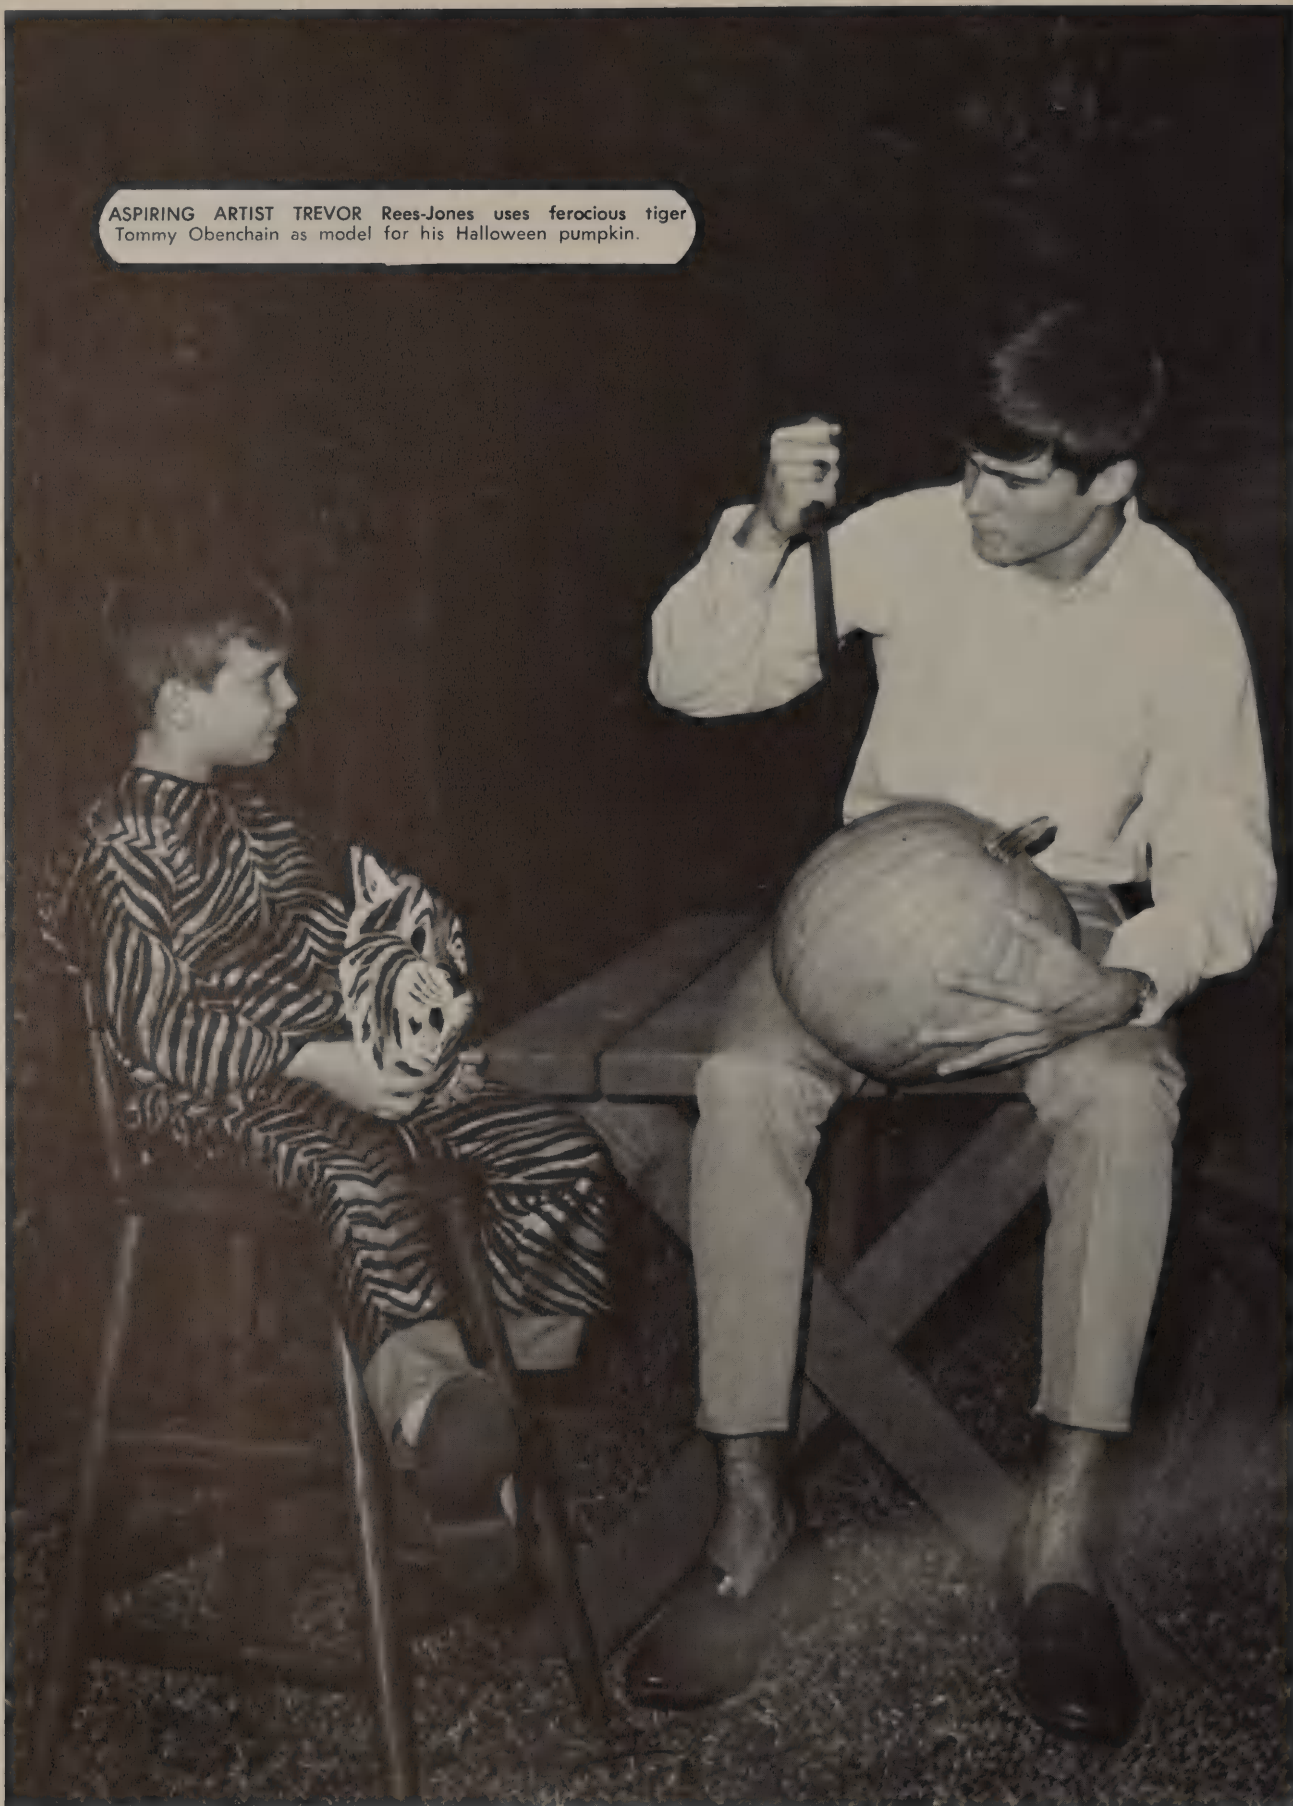

Storming onto the stage, 50 members of the "Up With People" cast enthusiastically presented a program of original songs to Highland Park Scots.

These college and high school students composed only a part of the international cast which was in Dallas performing at the State Fair and Dallas-area high schools. Calling for an encore, Scots responded to the group's modern beat and message of positive dissent.

AFS Week emphasized the necessity of raising the $750 needed by the pro—to sponsor students from abroad. The week-long sale of AFS bonds and the fund-raising dance held after the Garland game were efforts to accomplish this goal. At the assembly on Tuesday of that week, the two HP exchange students, Fun Tang from Malaysia and Verena Kielwein from Germany, were formally introduced to the student body.

Two assemblies, focused on projects for the improvement of Dallas, acquainted students with the 114 goals compiled from the suggestions of thousands of Dallas citizens. Questionnaires distributed at these "Goals for Dallas" programs gave Highland Park students an opportunity to indicate which of the goals they considered most important.

EACH SUPPORTING HIS choice of candidate, Scots Diane Cory, Libby Edwards, Webb Spradley, Mary Ann Bearden, Ellen Hunt, and Julie Halley glue themselves to the television in hopes that their man will win.

National Political Scene Interests Scots

Bumper stickers, political buttons, and debates in classes and school clubs were evidence of student interest in the November national elections.

On election eve, Scots active in youth political clubs distributed bulletins reminding party members to vote the next day. Many students gathered before television sets on the night of November 5 to view the latest returns.

Sponsored by Hi-Lites, the annual Religious Emphasis Week stressed the relevance of religion to daily life. Three Dallas clergymen, two of whom had seniors attending Highland Park, addressed Scots in assemblies. To conclude the week, the Lads and Lassies choir presented a program of church music written in various musical periods, from the Renaissance to modern times.

Two performances by the music department preceded the Thanksgiving holidays. In their Pops Assembly, the orchestra included selections from Camelot and Carousel, the 1968 and 1969 HP musicals. Creating the proper holiday mood with a stage setting of a harvest moon and a scarecrow amid bales of hay, the Highlandaires gave their annual Thanksgiving program.

At the University Interscholastic League Marching Contest in Mesquite, the Highlander Band received a rating of second division in competition against many marching bands.

Holiday Cheer Grows as Vacation Nears

Sleep became a luxury as Scots attempted to arrange crowded schedules to accomodate school-work, holiday jobs, and the numerous celebrations of December.

At the French Club's progressive dinner, the 50 participants feasted on authentic European dishes while absorbing the comments of a Frenchman about student revolts and dating customs of his country. Spanish Club members ended their four-course dinner with dessert at Miss Martha Marks' apartment.

Both Highlander and Bagpipe staff members met at Gail Obenchain's home for their annual Christmas party. After dinner, the guests gathered around the Christmas tree as Santa Claus Bobby Crotty distributed the gifts they exchanged.

December was the busiest month of the season for Scot basketballers, who won eight of their 12 games. Exhibiting desire and ability, they took first place in the Highland Park Tournament, tied for third place in the Austin Tournament, and advanced to the quarter finals of the Dr. Pepper Tournament.

Programs given by the Scot choirs contributed to the holiday mood. The Lads and Lassies sang one night before the fountain at Northpark Mall and performed for the opening of One Main Place. The Highlandaires presented a group of old English carols to the student body.

Braving the possible misfortunes of Friday the 13th, Hi-Lites and their dates danced to the music of the Rogues at the semi-formal Christmas Ball. Highlander Band members followed their dance, "An Old-Fashioned Christmas," with breakfast at Scott Worthen's home.

After all the activities leading up to the treasured ten days of relaxation, Scots fought crowds to complete last-minute shopping.

January was a month of beginnings: the beginning of a new semester, the beginning of a new year, the beginning of the last year of a decade, and the beginning of a new national administration.

While most Scots attempted to study for semester exams, All-Region Choir and Band members concentrated on memorizing music for January concerts. Jon Pfautsch was the only Highlander Band member successful in his bid for a chair in the All-Region Band. In the position of first tympani, he participated in the band's first performance at Richardson High School. Seven members of the Lads and Lassies Choir represented Highland Park in the 1969 All-Region Choir. Two days of rehearsal preceded the choir's performance at SMU.

Displaying previously unperceived skill and agility, the teachers defeated the students in the second annual Key Club-faculty basketball game. Sponsored by this HP service organization, the event raised $71 for the March of Dimes drive.

The Golden Avalanche officially ended the '68 season with its banquet, "Football Hall of Fame," given in honor of the football team by the Highland Park Quarterback Club. The presentation of senior awards followed a buffet dinner and a review of HiPark's 8-2 season. Selected by his teammates, John Wagner received the honorary title of "Forgotten Lineman." Head Coach Herman Bailey presented the "Most Conscientious Scot" award to Bobby Crotty and the "Fight'n'est Scot" award to Jimmy Holmes and Bobby Madeley.

Music, Patriotism Fill February Activities

Scots attending the Dallas Symphony Orchestra Youth Concert early in February ushered in a month of diverse musical activities.

Performances by the music department saluted special February dates. Alice in Wonderland figures, such as "The Queen of Hearts" and "The March Hare," enhanced the romantic mood at the Highlandaires' Valentine's Day program. On Abraham Lincoln's birthday, the orchestra presented music of our country's heritage coordinated with a narrated filmstrip of the great man's life.

For Brotherhood Week, the Lads and Lassies performed songs with lyrics taken from some of Thomas Jefferson's writing. In one of the non-musical assemblies, HP's AFS students, Fun Tang and Verena Kielwein, compared their own countries to the United States. Dallas Cowboy Craig Baynham ended the week by telling how brotherly love can be practiced in everyday life.

Singer Pat de Carmine and orchestra members Trisha Hall, Marilyn Vaughan, and Tom Walsh traveled to San Antonio for a four-day All-State convention. Intensive rehearsals culminated in the grand concert, combining the efforts of all the music groups.

At the ROTC Regimental Ball, the SMU Mustang Band provided dance music for the cadets and their dates. With the new name of "Scot Sounds Unlimited" the Highlander stage band ended February by presenting a program of jazz and popular music.

HP Homecoming . . . How Sweet It Was!

Giant paper lollipops, paper flowers, and colorful streamers carried out the theme of "How Sweet It Is" at the 1968 Homecoming dance.

Festivities began at half time, when the six Homecoming Queen nominees, chosen by the football team, were driven around Highland Stadium in convertibles. Escorted onto the field, the girls were introduced to the crowd and presented with gold mums.

With a hard-fought score of 24 to 21 over Carrollton, Scots celebrated their second district victory at the dance. "The Preachers and Their Soul Review" provided the favorite song of each nominee as she was accompanied by a senior member of the football team to the platform. Climaxing the evening's excitement, Student Council president Charles Francis announced Temple Walker as 1968 Homecoming Queen.

Cheerleaders Plan, Practice in Spare Time

"We've got spirit" became the slogan for HP cheerleaders at the pep rallies this year. As the student body crowded into the boys' gym, the six energetic Scots enthusiastically launched into their yells.

Astounding the fans with her tumbling feats, Laurie Harris assumed the position of head cheerleader. Each Thursday afternoon during football season, the group planned and practiced for the pep rallies the following day. Cheerleaders Buck Boyan, Nancy Novak, Dick Quisenberry, Tom Prejean, and Temple Walker, also boosted school support of other sports during the year.

To learn skills for the pep rallies and games, the yell leaders attended a week-long summer cheerleading work-shop at SMU. At the end of the week, the HP cheerleaders received third place in the Workshop competition for their excellent execution of the yells. Co-sponsors Mrs. Gynne Manson and Miss Jayne Murchison helped to coordinate the activities of the cheerleaders at pep rallies and games.

Nazi Amsterdam Recreated in Senior Play

MR. FRANK (Tom Prejean) leads the families in worship as he lights the Hanukkah candles.

With a variety of crude materials and a little ingenuity, the stage crew for the senior play, The Diary of Anne Frank, recreated the attic in which Anne lived for three years.

The attic room was an especially difficult technical problem because of the necessity of showing four rooms at one time. Overcoming this hurdle, stage manager Allen Guiberson arranged a split-level set.

The story of two Jewish families hiding from the Nazis in a small attic in Amsterdam, the play was narrated by Anne, played by Karen Dodson. Mr. and Mrs. Frank, played by Tom Prejean and Beth Peabody, offered asylum to the Van Deans, portrayed by Brett Morgan and Doyle Ann Sears, and their teenage son Peter, John Stephenson.

Student director Madeline Jobst assisted director Mrs. Lillian Prather. Lynn Smith, make-up director, Laurie Goodson, costume mistress, and Pam Berry, props manager, with their senior crews, managed the details that added to the authenticity and creativity of this year's senior play.

AFS Exchange Students Join HP Scots

WEARING THE COSTUME of her native land, Verena Kielwein tells the student body about life in Germany.

Scots observed the American Field Service motto of world peace through communication and understanding by sponsoring Fun Tang from Malaysia and Verena Keilwien from Germany as their foreign exchange students.

Hi Park employed three methods to raise the $1600 needed to sponsor two AFS students. During the week of October 13-18, designated as AFS Week, Student Council members sold AFS bonds. The 45-member AFS committee, composed of HP students, sponsored a dance in the girls' gym after the Garland football game October 18. In the final fund-raising project, on March 5, Scots paid admission to attend a variety talent show featuring the future star performers in the student body.

Participating in school clubs and activities, Fun and Verena became honorary members of the Student Council and the Round Table. In a special assembly February 20, the girls described their lives in their native countries and the significance and responsibility of being an exchange student. They were accompanied at this assembly by St. Mark's two exchange students, a boy from England and a boy from Italy.

After several interviews, juniors Nancy Jones and Porter Storey were chosen from eight applicants as Highland Park's candidates for the AFS Americans Abroad summer program.

HP Scholars Receive Semifinalist Ratings

PROVING THEIR VERSATILITY, mechanics Scott Worthen, Mary Helen Gray, David Watkins, Carl Glaze, and Mary Ann Bearden overhaul their new car and hope for the best.

Accustomed to the luxury of sleeping late on weekends, 263 bleary-eyed, yawning juniors and low seniors found themselves in the high school cafeteria early on Saturday morning in February, 1968.

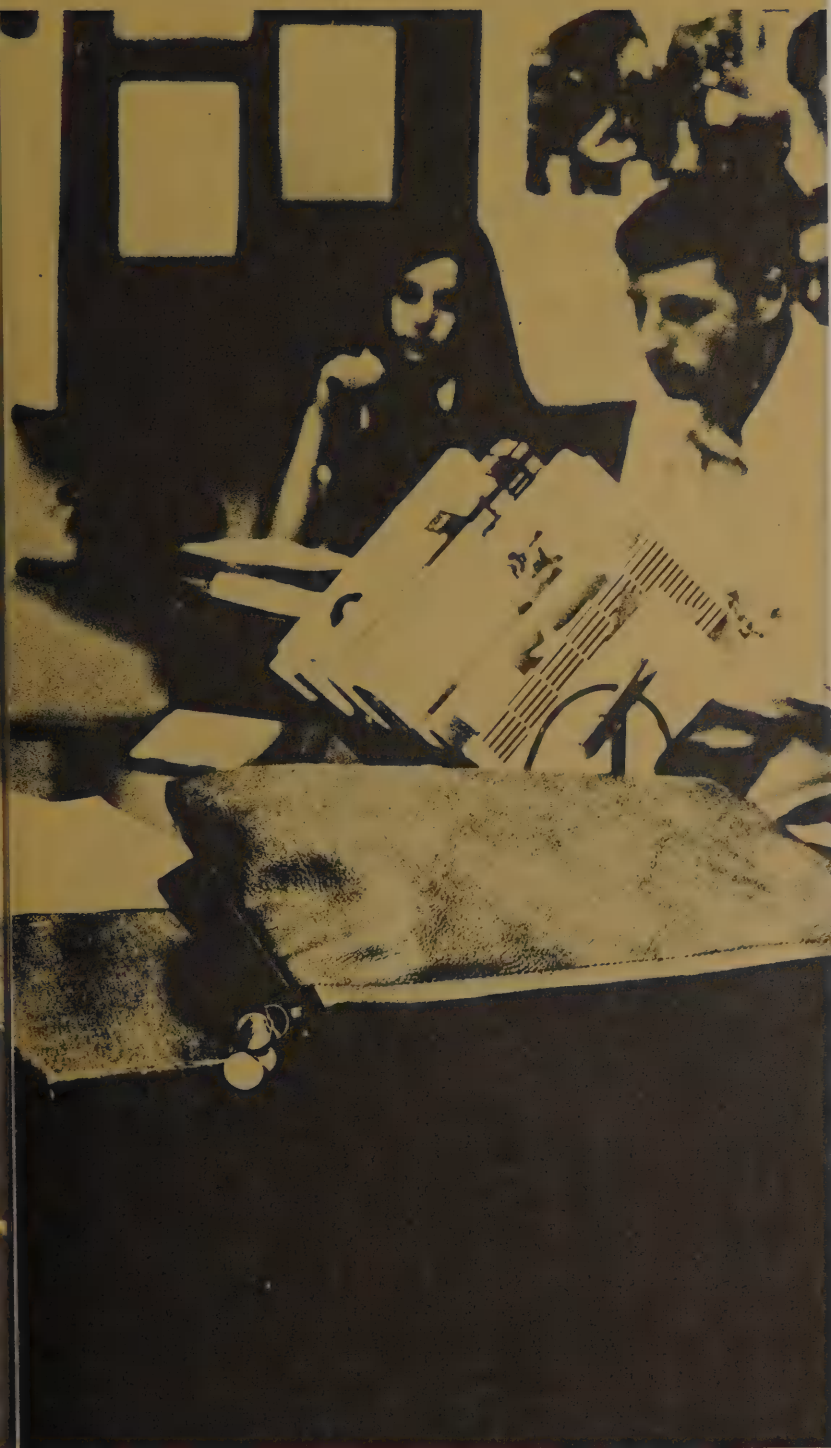

These were assembled there to take the National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test, administered on a Saturday rather than during the week, as in previous years, in an effort to provide better testing conditions. On the basis of their scores on these three-hour tests, nine Scots were named Merit Semifinalists.

Seniors Mary Ann Bearden, Karen Edwards, Carl Glaze, Mary Helen Gray, Hobie Hukill, Mark Pittman, Don Sillers, David Watkins, and Scott Worthen, ranked among 15,000 students in the United States.

The National Merit Board also recognized 19 outstanding seniors who scored in the upper 27 per cent of all the students graduating in 1969. Recipients of the Letters of Commendation were Maria Banewicz, Sharon Brown, Bobby Crotty, Allison Dickson, Susie Dwelle, Jeff Goldat, Kevin Grey, Rick Hayslett, Marlee Henry, Sharon Hott, Peggy Johnson, Karen Leistikow, David Loepp, Brenda Neel, David Pritchard, Lee Ritchie, Richard Strange, Renee Trahan, and Mike Winniford.

EXPLAINING THE SYMBOLISM in Gulliver's Travels, Mrs. Annette Briscoe leads her senior English class in a discussion.

This was the year when ten teachers joined the faculty, three new faculty members came at mid-term, computer mathematics became a credit course, and two accelerated science courses gave broader scope to the curriculum.

MR. WALTER SPRADLEY, Mr. Frank Monroe, Mr. A. H. McCulloch examine plans for the new planetarium.

School Board Plans Improvement of HP

Engrossed with demanding responsibilities and decisions, the Highland Park School Board planned the enlargement of the high school building and faculty, an addition made possible by the passage of a three-million dollar bond issue.

Among the changes to be completed by April, 1970, were the construction of a planetarium, the enlargement of the cafeteria, the installation of air conditioning, and the addition of two wings, a new library, and 22 classrooms. Construction began in April, 1969.

On September 29 and 30, six members of the board attended the annual conference of the Texas Association of School Board and School Administrators in Austin. During its monthly meetings, the seven-member School Board adopted new textbooks and heard faculty departmental reports on such subjects as the variation in credit given by colleges for Advanced Placement courses.

New members Mrs. Robert S. Bush, Mr. Lee R. Slaughter, Jr., and Dr. Elgin W. Ware were elected to the board in April, 1968. Mr. Robert B. Moody represented the group as a member of the executive board of the Texas School Board.

Mr. Hart Improves, Expands Curriculum

EVERETT HART
Principal
Highland Park High School

To meet the growing needs of Highland Park students, Principal Everett Hart strove to achieve improvement in the curriculum.

For the academically talented, Mr. Hart supported the addition of major works courses in biology and physics. Specially-paced courses in algebra and geometry to help students who needed extra guidance in mathematics also gave broader scope to the curriculum. Anticipating the coming enlargement of Highland Park to a four-year high school, Mr. Hart planned a survey to determine students' reactions in the possible addition of German to the foreign language department.

Attending conventions enabled Mr. Hart to learn of innovations in the field of school administration. He represented HP at the State Convention of the Texas Association of Secondary Principals and attended the National Association of Secondary Principals in San Francisco.

Previously the principal of Alamo Heights High School in San Antonio, Mr. Hart came to Highland Park in 1966. He received his B.S. from East Texas State University, and his Master of Education degree from the University of Texas.

AFTER VICTORY OVER Denton, Mr. Hart congratulates football team in locker room.

New Administrators Begin Careers at HP

MR. WINSTON POWER joins Scots Russell Burger and Robert Gross at a January swim meet.

Succeeding Mr. Noble Atkins as Vice-Principal this fall, Mr. William J. Peppiatt came to Highland Park last spring to serve as Assistant Principal during his administrative internship from the University of Texas.

Prior to holding these positions, Mr. Peppiatt taught English in a suburban high school in New York City.

His varied duties included enforcing administrative policies, supervising building maintenance, and keeping the calendar. He received his B.A. in English from Hofstra University on Long Island and his M.S. in secondary education from Queens College. Previously the Vice-Principal at the Junior High, Assistant Principal Mr. Winston C. Power co-ordinated guidance services, supervised the keeping of records, and handled enrollment, registration, and all data processing. He attended TCU where he received both his B.A. in history and mathematics and his M.A. in education and secondary administration.

Stressing awareness of metropolitan problems, the first P-TA meeting of the year featured a film on "Goals for Dallas."

On October 16, the P-TA and Dads' Club jointly sponsored their annual "Back to School Night." After a brief meeting in the auditorium, each parent followed his student's schedule. During the seven-minute classes, teachers described their goals for the year.

Another program co-sponsored by the two organizations was College Day on October 6. Almost 800 students and parents heard presentations about colleges throughout the nation. A luncheon honoring the 64 college representatives was given before the afternoon's program.

Scot mothers representing every organization in the school attended the monthly P-TA Open Board meetings. The printing and distribution of the newsletter, the "Thistle," was another monthly activity of the P-TA. Other duties included the financing and management of the school cafeteria. At the end of the year, the P-TA awarded medals to girls on winning intramural teams.

The Highland Park Dads' Club, which had the responsibility of supporting many school-related activities, supplemented a fund enabling faculty members to attend summer institutes and seminars. Honoring the officers of each P-TA in the Highland Park district, the Dads' Club sponsored its annual Christmas program, held this year at Junior High.

HP Teachers Share Various Techniques

CONCENTRATING ON HIS kick-up, Mr. Edward Kosterman perfects his soccer techniques.

Growth of any high school necessitates the addition of teachers to the faculty. The 12 new teachers this year brought diversified interests and abilities to Highland Park's 83-member faculty.

Summer interests of five Hi Park teachers carried them to many points on the globe. Miss Dorothy Clark journeyed through Spain, southwestern France, and northern Italy, with a relaxing stop of seven days on the French Riviera. Residing a month in Paris, Miss Eileen Steensen attended the world-renowned school of cooking, Cordon Bleu. Miss Maud Anderson traveled to Greece, where she visited Athens, Delphi, and Delos. Both Miss Judy Jackson and Miss Lela Hazelle Boyd took European tours.

Faculty members also participated in outdoor sports. Coach James Mouser enjoyed water-skiing, golf, and hunting during his spare time. Racing cars and playing soccer occupied Mr. Edward Kosterman's summer. Coach Joe McNight spent many hours on the golf course improving his putting.

Long Hours Bring Rewards to Teachers

SHOWING HIS CONCERN about the coming game against the Cardinals, Coach Herman Bailey gives a last minute talk to the team.

Furthering their own education, two HP teachers completed their theses this summer for their Master's degree. Mr. Lee Roberts obtained his degrees in chemistry from East Texas State College. To receive her Master's from SMU, Mrs. Lilian Prather wrote her thesis on contemporary women poets.

The creativity of Highland Park teachers was indulged during their spare time. Miss Judy Jackson painted in oils, and for a more unique hobby, collected silver napkin rings. During the summer, Miss Gladys Sitz remodeled the interior of her home. Miss Diane Cook spent innumerable hours perfecting her decoupaged purses. Antiquing furniture was a favorite pastime for Miss Martha Marks. Miss Dorothy Clark decorated her apartment in a Spanish style, and Miss Mary Neaves enjoyed making her own clothes.

Teachers at Highland Park participated in many activities outside of school. Mr. John Hanscom acted as assistant scoutmaster for his son's Boy Scout troop. During the summer, Mrs. William Chat-taway, working as a lab technician, tested blood samples at Presbyterian Hospital.

Special English Projects Create Interest

To supplement their study of Shakespeare's Macbeth, senior English classes held a mock trial of the characters in the play.

With students portraying characters, judges, jury, witnesses, and attorneys, in each of the ingeniously-contrived cases the classes determined a verdict for the defendant.

Regular junior classes read famous American works, including such novels as Babbitt and Moby Dick. Using techniques of structural analysis, juniors in the two major works classes explored the themes of Gulliver's Travels and The Scarlet Letter.

The sophomore English course introduced students to such famous writers as Charles Dickens and George Orwell. To improve their writing ability, students studied artistic devices employed by these authors. After studying The Old Man and the Sea and Huckleberry Finn, sophomore major works classes compared the author's views on society.

In the speech department, students gained stage experience by presenting talks in class and by managing technical details in the production of the senior play. Journalism students learned characteristics of newspaper style and lay-out.

PRACTICING WITH A tape recorder, Doyle Ann Sears improves her speech and diction skills before a test.

BALANCING A FUNK and Wagnalls on her head, Mary Helen Gray tries diligently to finish her English paper.

ONE METHOD OF studying folk ballads is exhibited by Paul Lee and Buzz Boto in Mrs. Cloriene Barrett's senior English class.

Math Department Adds Computer Course

Bringing a contemporary emphasis to the math department, computer mathematics became an accredited course at HP in January. Students programmed computer languages and solved problems they developed from all areas of study.

Advanced seniors prepared for the May Advanced Placement Exams, which culminated a college-level course combining calculus and analytic geometry. Sophomore major works classes utilized a new college algebra text. Exploring such topics as computers and truth tables, juniors in major works classes studied geometry and trigonometry during the fall semester and elementary functions in the spring.

The regular sophomore math classes concentrated on algebraic fundamentals, quadratic functions, and conic sections. In geometry classes, juniors investigated the theory of logic and the nature of proof.

Trigonometry and elementary functions courses introduced seniors to basic principles of higher mathematics.

Beginning in late March, Mr. Otto Bielss offered a supplementary slide-rule course during morning sessions. Open to all three grade levels, the course was intended to facilitate students' calculations in advanced math and science courses.

In the National Math Test, taken March 11, Don Sillers achieved the highest school ranking, Robin Rees-Jones placed second, and Mark Jacobs made the third highest score. Advanced Placement math students Don Sillers and Sharon Hott represented HP at the Hockaday Math Tournament March 8.

Experiments Prove Theories to Students

DON SILLERS CLOSELY observes his experiment to calculate the results.

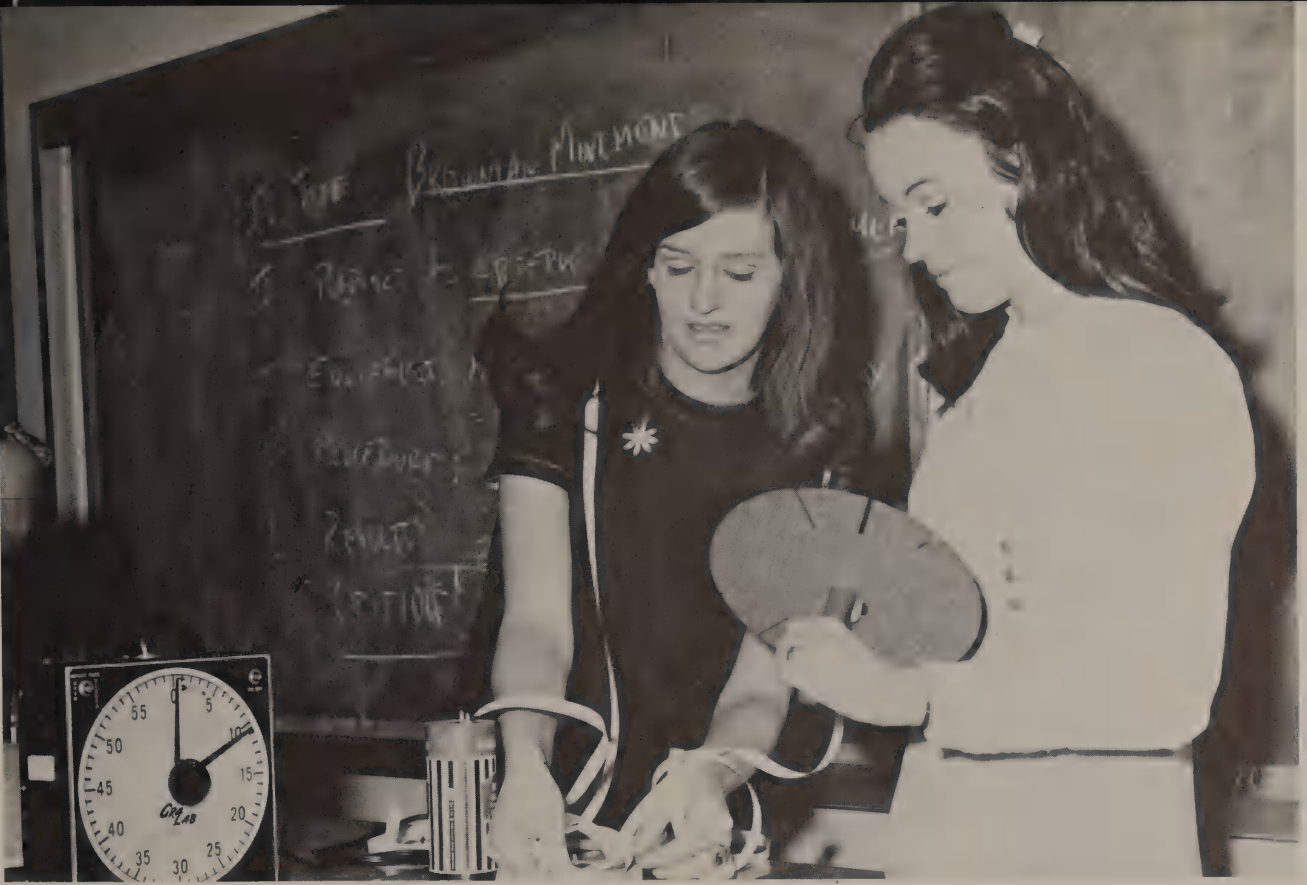

What would a group of ingenious physics students do with a 400-pound drum full of water? Students pursuing independent study projects utilized the drum as a sturdy base for grinding lenses for their hand-made microscope.

In physics classes, theories of light, sound, heat, and electricity prepared students for math and science-related careers. The new major works course, one of several introduced in the curriculum this year, stressed individual experimentation.

After acquiring an understanding of the fundamental structure of living organisms, biology students discovered the fascination in dissecting worms, crayfish, and frogs.

During the second semester, several classes made insect collections. The 15 students in the new major works course undertook a more intensive study of the subject.

Working in pairs, chemistry students became adept in performing experiments in the lab. This year, seniors as well as juniors participated in the major works course. A special textbook and frequent lab sessions enabled the students to comprehend the theories explaining scientific phenomena. In the Advanced Placement course, second-year chemistry students covered the material in a standard college text which gave them a more detailed foundation for higher level courses.

PRESIDENT PRO TEM of Proconia Congress Terry Stewart pounds for order at the first session.

Intent on repealing outdated laws, government students in Hi Park's mock congress, the legislative body of the imaginary country Proconia, debated the merits and weak points of capital punishment and the Electoral College.

Government classes undertook a thorough study of the Texas and United States constitutions and the organization and responsibilities of the branches of government. Gaining a greater understanding of the functioning of the stock market, students in economics classes followed the procedures of buying and selling stocks. The course acquainted students with the fundamental principles of the American free enterprise system.

Term themes, book reports, and films supplemented American history courses. Class debates on the Vietnam War, civil rights, and federal poverty programs encouraged student interest in current events. An October field trip to hear Richard Nixon's campaign speech at SMU's Moody Coliseum terminated an intensive study of the 1968 national elections for Advanced Placement American history students.

World history classes traced the story of the ages from Java men to modern times. To keep informed of recent developments, students subscribed to a weekly current-events newspaper.

AP Spanish Students Give Original Play

SECOND AND THIRD-LEVEL Latin students Kat O'Dwyer and Meg Majors find projects helpful.

Satirizing of famous public figures enlivened an original play, De Pequeñas Mentas, written and performed by the 12 students in the Advanced Placement Spanish class.

In place of a test on Spanish Nobel prizewinner Jacinto Benavente, these fifth-level students took stock characters from one of his plays and incorporated them into their own dramatic creation. The AP course included an intensive study of ten Spanish and Latin-American authors, including four members of Spain's famous literary group, the "Generation of '98." The Mexican movie "Dona Barbara," adapted from a Latin-American novel, read by the AP class, entertained the students in February.

Students in first and second-year Spanish and French classes conjugated the principal tenses of verbs and utilized the language lab to acquire a basic vocabulary from dialogues and oral drills. In third and fourth-level classes, students read short stories, plays, novels, and other literary genres. Third-year French students tackled Racine's Phedre. On March 6, French students from all four levels attended a performance of Phedre presented by a French traveling troupe at SMU's McFarlin Auditorium.

FOURTH-LEVEL SPANISH students Renee Trahan, Webb Spradley, and Grady Butler present Mañana del Sol for the Spanish Club.

ROBERT JOHNSON GETS help putting on his toga from Latin students Judy Cunningham and Marsha Hobin.

Students in a fourth-level Spanish class presented a play they had read to the Spanish Club.

For the first time, juniors as well as seniors participated in the fourth-level French class. This addition was effected through a change in policy two years ago, which allowed ninth graders in level two. In a French culture unit, the fourth-level students read literature from the Middle Ages, the Renaissance, and the eighteenth, nineteenth, and twentieth centuries.

First and second-level Latin students mastered basic sentence structures and word declensions and studied the Trojan War. Cicero's orations and Ovid's poetry challenged the advanced Latin classes. The five level-four students wrote term themes describing evidence of Vergil's patriotism in his Aeneid.

The inclusion of juniors in the fourth-level French class meant the possibility of adding an AP French course next year. During the spring semester, underclassmen interested in taking German in the '69-'70 school year completed survey forms.

For a contest sponsored by the Rotary Club, art students created posters depicting the theme of "World Peace Through World Understanding."

Expressing their impressions of daily experiences, art students worked with craypas, tempera, and charcoal. In a crafts unit, they carved figures from linoleum blocks.

During the Christmas season, the orchestra performed for the staff of Parkland Hospital and for a vesper service at SMU's Perkins Chapel. Participating in a tribute to Abraham Lincoln on February 14, the orchestra played patriotic songs of the Civil War era.

To prepare for the University Interscholastic League Marching Contest in November, the Highlander band competed against 37 other high school bands in the L. D. Bell Hurst contest. During Thanksgiving, the band marched in the Great Balloon Parade in downtown Dallas.

In addition to three traditional appearances, Lads and Lassies performed in the malls of One Main Place and the Northpark shopping center and for the women of Highland Park Presbyterian Church. The choir and orchestra combined their efforts in the presentation of Thomas Jefferson's "Testament of Freedom" in February and the musical Carousel held March 19, 21, and 22.

Using hand and power tools, boys in wood-work classes practiced speed and safety in creating finished products. More advanced students specialized in the reproduction of antiques and in cabinet construction.

Elementary accounting and business arithmetic and law composed the business education curriculum. These courses furnished students with an understanding of basic business practices and legal terms encountered in everyday living.

Through conscientious work and practice, students in typewriting classes developed skills useful in both office and personal work. The basic Gregg course in shorthand prepared students for stenographic jobs.

Pupils interested in engineering and architectural vocations enrolled in mechanical drawing courses. Each aspiring architect designed the floor plan of a house.

Having mastered the techniques of food selection and meal planning, students in homemaking classes planned luncheons and dinners and expertly prepared the food for the faculty Christmas tea. Girls in gym class played in sports which combined good sportsmanship with stiff competition. During the second semester, they learned square dancing. Third and sixth-period swimming classes utilized Wednesday for individual practice as they learned and perfected strokes. Competing for Girls' Athletic Association patches, awarded to the outstanding athletes in each sport, 13 girls participated in inter-class races and form swimming on Mondays and Tuesdays.

The devotional committee, consisting of Student Council members, faced the question of the possible discrimination against students of non-Christian faiths and beliefs. To resolve the problem, the committee included Christian and Jewish prayers and non-religious thoughts in the daily devotionals. The student body also voted to continue devotionals. NHS Presents Traditional Blanket Award

SPONSOR MRS. REYBURN Myers presents Allison Dickinson with her Quill and Scroll charm, as Allyn Myers looks on.

In a traditional ceremony during the Honors Day assembly, Don Sillers, president of the National Honor Society, presented the Blanket Award to the graduating girl and boy who had totaled the highest number of achievement points.

Hi Park's two honorary societies held candlelight initiations. The National Honor Society admitted 19 new members in November and both seniors and high juniors in April. Sixteen students joined HP's Quill and Scroll chapter in March.

Sponsored by Miss Mary Hardin, the National Honor Society consisted of students outstanding in character, scholarship, leadership, and service. Members of Quill and Scroll were admitted on the basis of a rank in the upper third of their class, and a minimum of one semester's work on a publication staff and a junior standing. Mrs. Reyburn Myers served as adviser for Quill and Scroll.

Both organizations held social functions during the year. In addition to their annual fall progressive dinner and spring picnic, members of the NHS attended an informal party at Miss Hardin's home in January. Quill and Scroll members celebrated the election of new members with a dinner at a restaurant after their spring initiation.

Student Involvement in School Projects

As a continuing project, the Student Council sponsored an Indian orphan through the Christian Children's Foundation this year. The collection of 15 cents from each student provided money for the child's food, school books, and other necessities.

The council boosted HP spirit by the sale of ribbons and bus caravan tickets. In addition, the executive committee compiled a file of schedule cards accessible to all students, and the Clan, the student-faculty directory. Organized only last year, the improvement committee encouraged Scots to voice constructive criticisms and suggestions concerning school policies and decisions.

Social activities for both the faculty and students enlivened the school year. Student Council imagination and ingenuity combined to plan the September Howdy Dance, a Halloween tea for the teachers, and the annual Homecoming dance.

HP Historians Connect Past With Present

Under the supervision of a new sponsor, Mr. John Hanscom, the Junior Historical Society re-defined its purpose and redesigned its organization.

Rather than examining unrelated historical events, the group endeavored to identify parallels between European and American cultures, both past and modern. Led by president Bill Flittie, the club agreed to limit the membership to 30 students.

Addressing members of the Travel Club, Dallas Morning News travel editor Jean Simmons presented an expert's view. Kathy Saunders and Martha Howard, members of a youth group which traveled to Europe last summer, showed their slides of six foreign countries. As first-hand sources, AFS students Fun Tang and Verena Kielwein spoke to the club about their homelands. In January and April, club members dined at restaurants featuring international cuisine.

The Travel Club, sponsored by Mrs. Katherine Norman, and the Junior Historical Society met once a month during activities period.

Artists, Artisans Use Lapidary Machine

CHARLES LOVELL AND Maury Osborn polish rocks.

Through creative projects, the Artists and Artisans worked with other departments of the school to express the patriotic ideas of the Freedom Foundation. For an ROTC program, members designed scenery depicting the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier.

The Artists and Artisans met every Tuesday morning to develop the varied artistic abilities and interests of their 40 members. Under the supervision of art teacher Mrs. Mattie Childress, members experimented in a wide range of media, including chalk, water color, and clay.

Officers Kathy Saunders, president, Lynn Smith, vice-president, and Pam Geisking, secretary-treasurer, planned the social events and field trips throughout the year. At the end of September, members gathered at White Rock Lake for their annual picnic. During an excursion to the Owen Fine Art Center at SMU, the Artists and Artisans observed a Spanish display in the Meadows Art Gallery and a sculpture and art show in the lobby. In November, the group visited the Dallas Museum of Fine Arts to see a special showing of a collection of primitive African art.

Sounds of a new instrument fascinated Hi Park orchestra members this year. A five-string base, having one more string than the traditional bass, enriched the tone of the orchestra.

After a month of rehearsals, programs began in October under the direction of Mrs. Doris Griffith. The group performed for a cultural organization, the Academician Club, and for the Student Council's tea honoring the teachers. After presenting the annual Pop Concert to the student body in November, the orchestra played for the Junior High.

In support of the school's work for the Freedom Foundation Award, the orchestra gave a program entitled "Lincoln Tribute" in February. The production of the musical CAROUSEL occupied both the Lads and Lassies and orchestra members in March. The orchestra's annual spring concert in March was held in Caruth auditorium at SMU, rather than in the school auditorium as in previous years.

Six Hi Park orchestra members secured places in the Region Orchestra this year. Outstanding positions were held by Marilyn Vaughn, principal violist, and by Katie Wiggins, principal second violinist.

MARCHING THROUGH THE streets of downtown Dallas, the Highlander Band performs in the Great Balloon Parade.

HP Band Performs in Contests, Parades

New marching techniques distinguished the Highlander Band's performance in the November University Interscholastic League Marching Contest, a contest that Highland Park had not entered in four years.

Under the direction of Mr. Bob Jordan, formerly high school band director in Atlanta, Texas, the band enlarged its repertoire and increased the number of its performances. In September, Mr. Jordan traveled to Canada to obtain music written especially for pipes and band. Using the new music, the band performed for Band Day at North Texas State University, the Great Balloon Parade in downtown Dallas, and the Scot football games.

Because of a larger number of girls in the group this year, the Lassies received special bagpipe and dancing instruction. The Highlanders, a pipe and drum group from Oklahoma, came in August to demonstrate the care and maintenance of bagpipes and drums. In November, 25 Lassies participated in the annual "Gathering of the Clans" in Salado. Lassies also entered the Highland Dancing competition and the Novice Women's division of the piping competition.

The Highlander Band gave concerts at the San Antonio Hemisfair, the State Fair, and other schools in the Dallas-Ft. Worth district. In April, the student body heard a presentation of the program the band entered in the University Interscholastic League contest for concert bands.

Girls Plan Programs, Projects, Parties

SORTING TOYS to be sent to the United Fund Nursery, Edith Haenel and Mary Dunlap separate clothes from stuffed animals.

Aware of the wide range of members' interests, Hi-Lite Program Vice-Presidents brought to the auditorium a diversity of speakers, including Mr. Vince Tamura of the Tamura Judo Institute and Mrs. F. J. Shannon of the Dallas Civic Ballet.

Membership assured nearly every HP girl of the opportunity to have at least two dates this year, since almost all girls belonged to the club. The semi-formal Christmas Ball took place amid a setting of blinking lights and holiday greenery, and a Zodiac dance in March welcomed the arrival of spring.

In addition to its social activities, the club sponsored numerous service projects. At Christmas, the Welfare Committee sewed 50 stuffed panda bears for the young patients at Children's Medical Center, and the Red Cross Committee decorated Christmas stockings. Toys were collected in January for the United Fund Nursery for children of working mothers. In the spring, the Red Cross Committee sent kits containing dolls, washrags, soap, T-shirts, and other articles to Vietnamese children.

Officers for next year were announced at the club's last meeting, the annual luau in May.

Student Body Submits Articles for Tartan

CAY MATHERS SKETCHES ■ rough draft for the Tartan cover.

With its name derived from an "ancestral" literary magazine published at Highland Park in 1965, the Tartan complemented the school's Scottish tradition.

For the second consecutive year, Hi Park published this magazine sponsored by Mrs. Annette Briscoe with the assistance of Mrs. Mattie Childress and Mrs. Reyburn Myers. Having no previous structure to guide them, these teachers decided that three separate committees compose the Tartan staff.

Consisting of four seniors, three juniors, and three sophomores, the literary board reviewed, edited, and selected all written material to be printed in the magazine. The six seniors, five juniors, and three sophomores on the business and promotions council handled advertising and sold advance subscriptions. The seven-member art council chose illustrations and a cover design for the magazine.

The Tartan involved a significant number of HP students in literary and artistic creativity through the articles and illustrations they submitted. At the Texas High School Press Association convention in Denton, the magazine received a rating of All Texas with special honorable mention.

Key Club Strives for Patriotism, Service

"IT'S MINE!" cries Mr. Everett Hart as he struggles with Burton Combs and Chuck Davis for possession of the ball.

Sponsoring the Goals for Dallas assemblies at HP carried out one of the Key Club's main goals, to help improve the local, state, and national governments.

In keeping with their ideal of patriotism, the Key Club sent two members each Friday to luncheon meetings of the Park-Cities-North Dallas Kiwanis Club. The Key Club members officiated at an October meeting of this club. Each of the boys presented his opinion of the probable views of one of our Founding Fathers on current events. The Key Club, which also emphasized community service, sold tickets to the Antique Show, benefiting the Kiwanis Club's charity dental clinic.

Programs for the club usually took the form of debates, giving the pros and cons of controversial subjects. A debate between Nixon, Wallace and Humphrey supporters, a discussion of domestic and foreign views of Nixon's policies, and a report on NASA and the moon flights informed members of current happenings.

The 25 members of the Key Club met twice a month in the small auditorium. Members were chosen by teacher recommendations on the basis of grades, participation in school activities, and awareness of national and school events.

Frantic Staffs Struggle to Meet Deadlines

In an effort to turn out a top-quality yearbook, the Highlander staff subordinated school-work, meals, dates, and sleep to the work necessary to meet deadlines.

Co-editors Cindy Morgan and Gail Obenchain spent their "spare" time teaching new editorial staff members how to write copy, to compose captions and headlines, to crop pictures, and to plan layouts. Struggling to compile a complete record of the year's happenings, photographers worked during the day and often into the night to take pictures of school events and extracurricular activities.

Business staff members, led by Business Manager Bobby Crotty, besieged Dallas area merchants and businessmen in an effort to sell a record number of ads. The business staff also promoted yearbook sales and arranged pictures and copy for the ad section.

The production of the annual, however, was not all work and no play. The publications' Christmas party and spring picnic relieved the pressures of school assignments and Highlander work.

ALWAYS ONE STEP ahead of the action, photographer Mary Ann Bearden tries to be there before it happens.

Bagpipe Staff Introduces Longer Issues

JIM DEARIEN SELLS an issue of the Bagpipe to students at second period on a Friday.

Combating inflation, co-editors Allison Dickson and Trevor Rees-Jones introduced the unbeatable bargain, the 15-cent, 10-page issue of the Bagpipe, to the school this year.

In two longer issues during the first semester, the staff expanded the traditional eight-page coverage to include more news and photographs. For another first, the Bagpipe went outside the school to obtain information for special feature articles.

Throughout the year, the staff repeated the two-week cycle of writing articles, planning layouts, and selling ads. On every other Thursday, staff members went to the printer's to correct page proofs. The following Friday morning, the staff distributed the papers to students in second period classes, to the Junior High, and to other subscribers.

The Bagpipe received recognition as an outstanding newspaper in three contests. The Texas High School Association named the paper champion in Class III, and the Bagpipe received the top rating of distinguished merit in the Interscholastic Press League competition in Austin. In a nationwide contest, the Columbia Press Association awarded the paper a first place for typographical excellence.

Discussion Follows Research, Reflection

OBSERVED BY Nancy Jones, John Schrimpf, Mrs. Ray Birk, and Hugh McClung, Pam Berry wonders how it would be to make-up in the dressing room of the Bob Hope Theater.

To learn methods of discussion and the art of disagreeing without being disagreeable, Round Table members chose such controversial topics as "The American Party," discussed on election day, November 4.

Considering the most important requirement to be an active interest in local, national, and international affairs, sponsor Miss Helen Moore and an anonymous panel of teachers selected members from applications. Representative of a cross-section of the student body, members came from all three grade levels and various religious and political backgrounds.

At least a week before each bi-monthly meeting, discussion leaders posted an outline and a bibliography for the subject. Using the leaders' plan as a guide, other members then prepared their own outlines and added one or more references to the bibliography.

As a special spring activity, club members visited the new Bob Hope Theater and the Ruth Collins Sharp Drama Building at SMU.

Council Learns Skills, Writes Book Reviews

To meet the growing needs of advanced foreign language courses, the library acquired hundreds of literary works for French and Spanish students.

Librarian and Library Council sponsor Mrs. Marguerite Creighton initiated training programs to acquaint the staff with the wide selection of materials in the library. To accomplish this goal, she grouped Council members according to their years of experience. Each student employed his newly-acquired skills during the hour he spent in the library every day.

Assisted by the speech department, a special Council committee compiled book reviews to be made available to all departments. Completing a three-year project, the Council published the results of a survey of the books most recommended for pre-college reading.

EXPLAINING TECHNIQUES of using the overhead projector to practice teachers Miss Mary Carter and Miss Constance Knight, Mrs. Dorris Warburton reminds Future Teachers' officers Dorinda Garrot and Louise Bush that someday they will have to learn them, too.

Working as volunteers at Presbyterian Hospital and tutoring elementary and junior high school students enabled members of the Health Careers and Future Teachers' Clubs to understand better the requirements for vocations in the medical and educational fields.

Because the Future Teachers' Club was able to meet only six times this year, new sponsors Mrs. Evelyn Drury and Mrs. Dorris Warburton planned programs that would be informative to Scots seriously interested in teaching. Panel discussions with HP teachers, Highland Park graduates currently in college, practice teachers from SMU, and Scot exchange students kept club members informed about recent developments in the teaching profession.

The Future Nurses' Club broadened its program and changed its name, because many members had interests in medical vocations other than nursing. The new Health Careers Club, sponsored by Mrs. Elizabeth Chattaway and school nurse Mrs. Patricia Farmer, met monthly and was composed of almost twice the number of members in last year's club. Physicians who were experts on such diversified subjects as alcoholism and psychiatry addressed the group on health topics of particular concern to young people.

Lads, Lassies Test New Challenge System;

"Anything you can do I can do better," claimed choir members to each other this year, as the Lads and Lassies instituted a challenge system.

As an incentive to increased effort by individual members, the choristers began a promotion program in which each member in the choral sections was ranked according to his knowledge and mastery of the music.

Numerous activities filled the Christmas season for the choir. With the orchestra, the group presented the annual Christmas program for the student body. The chorus also performed for groups outside of school, including the Rotary Club and the women of Highland Park Presbyterian Church. After caroling at four hospitals, the Lads and Lassies held their annual Christmas party.

To start the new year, Dr. Ray Moore of Lamar Tech College instructed the choir in musical techniques. In a patriotic spirit, the chorus gave a program entitled "Testament of Freedom," containing thoughts from the writings of Thomas Jefferson. March brought the joint production of the musical Carousel by the Lads and Lassies and orchestra. For the closing performance of the year, the choir presented the Senior Assembly.

DISCUSSING FRENCH CUSTOMS, Paul Reisberg entertains French Club members at a January meeting.

Festive French posters and miniature kiosks added to an atmosphere of continental congeniality at the French Club's progressive dinner in December.

Members sampled such typical dishes as steak tartare, coq au vin, and chocolate mousse. Paul Reisberg, a French exchange student at Hillcrest High School, answered questions about French attitudes toward discotheques, revolts, cliques, group dating, and other related subjects.

Bringing members up to date on the younger generation in France, speakers primarily included French students living in the Dallas area. Mrs. Marie Morrison began the year with a lecture on the "Student Revolution" and current economic conditions in France. In January, Maxine Billion, a student at the University of Dallas, described French dating customs and Gallic system of education.

The French Club, almost twice as large as last year, met in the small auditorium on the first Thursday of each month with Sara Norton president.

HP Amateur Matador Relates Experience

GATHERED AT MARTHA RAIN'S house, Verena Kielwein, Kathy Houseman, Gail Gilbert, and Susie Dwelle celebrate Halloween.

Spanish Club members seeking to break the monotony of daily routine and drab winter weather enlivened their Dia de San Valentin party with fanciful and imaginative costumes.

At the club's first meeting junior Candy Freeman related her experiences as an amateur matador while attending a six-weeks summer school in Salamanca, Spain. Mrs. Judith Luttrell, a new English teacher at Highland Park, described her impressions of Lima, Peru, where she taught American students for two years. She displayed ancient Inca beads and dolls uncovered when she and her husband excavated graves during archeological expeditions. Guitarist Rudolfo Quiroga entertained the club at the December meeting with songs of his native Bolivia.

Gathering at Martha Rain's home for the annual Halloween party, members demonstrated their adeptness in bobbing for apples. More than 50 members feasted on arroz con pollo at the progressive dinner in December. The annual banquet in May concluded the year's social activities.

Sponsored by Miss Lela Boyd, Miss Martha Marks, and Miss Dorothy Clark, the 200-member club met once a month at activities period.

Math Club Initiates Class in Computers

With 12 seniors, two juniors, and four sophomores participating in the class, the computer mathematics program became an accredited course in Highland Park's curriculum for the first time.

Initiated through the interest exhibited by the Math Club members, this course included a study of three computer languages, Basic, Fortran, and Aigol. Each student, chosen by application, paid $50 to help purchase the teletypewriter for the class, which met during the fifth period in the spring semester.

The Math Club, headed by president Bobby Weiner, vice-president Don Sillers, treasurer Scott Worthen, and secretary Mark Pittman, met twice a month. Members volunteered to perform research and to report to the club on such subjects as probability statistics, number and set theories, and computers. Some members, with interests among these fields, developed individual projects.

To prepare for the National High School Mathematics Examination in February, members worked problems on previous tests. Math teachers Mr. Otto Bielss and Mrs. Helen Blair served as club sponsors.

Science Club Studies Crystals, Computers

Research into the construction of a cloud chamber, a device detecting nuclear particles, intrigued HP scientists this year.

With the club's president, Rick Gray, planning the programs, the Science Club held its regular meetings every other Monday at activities period with additional gatherings on Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday afternoons. With the assistance of sponsors Mr. John Crabb and Mr. Lee Roberts, each member pursued a special interest through an individual project. Several students entered their projects in the school Science Fair in March.

The programs throughout the year informed club members of contemporary scientific subjects. Mr. Roberts spoke on crystal structures at one meeting. Bobby Weiner explained his plan for a three-stage binary computer, which he constructed during the afternoon sessions.

Led by officers Rick Gray, Don Sillers, Bobby Weiner, and Scott Worthen, the Science Club kept informed of current scientific advances and encouraged original application of scientific theories.

Chorus Strives for Perfect Performances

LAUGHING AT HERSELF in a graduated Highlandaire's dress, Linda Williams calculates how much it must be taken up.

Saluting Highland Park's Scottish tradition, the Highlandaires chorus, accompanied by members of the Lassies, presented a Program of Scottish folk music for the student body this spring.

Scots attended three other assemblies given by the choir: a Thanksgiving program, Benjamin Britten's "Ceremony of Carols" presented at Christmas, and a program in April. The Highlandaires also performed for churches and community organizations.

In its second year as a chartered organization, the chorus was composed of 62 junior and senior girls who auditioned for director Mr. Don Timberlake last spring. This year, in place of their customary candy sale, Highlandaires sold "Big D Dine-Out Club" memberships, which entitled the holder to two meals for the price of one at 31 restaurants in the Dallas-Fort Worth area.

Beginning this year, lockers on the west wall outside the chorus room were reserved for choir members to place their books in during the class period. This arrangement improved daily rehearsals by eliminating the confusion of books and music which had crowded the room in the past.

AFTER PARTICIPATION IN the North Zone Competition, Eric Weir receives advice from Sgt. Hines.

Under the leadership of a new commander, Lt. Col. Joe M. Hill, the drill and rifle teams strove to secure the title of "Best Battalion in the City." The teams participated in three meets, the North Zone, Interzone, and Dallas Field Day Competitions.

With two first places and one second place, the drill team won the North Zone championship in November. Practices for three meets involved an average of three or four hours a week.

The Highland Park ROTC program included both academic training and physical education. In the classroom, the boys learned courtesy, rules of conduct for the armed forces, operation and cleaning of small arms and field weapons, and first aid and caution in the field. For the physical fitness phase of the program, the cadets divided into small companies to drill and occasionally to play football.

At the end of March, the honor corps, consisting of five cadet companies, a band, a drill team, and a rifle team perfected new marching formations for the annual Federal Inspection. Officers from the fourth United States Army examined the uniforms and equipment of the Cadets.

KATHY BRANCH
1968-69 Battalion Queen

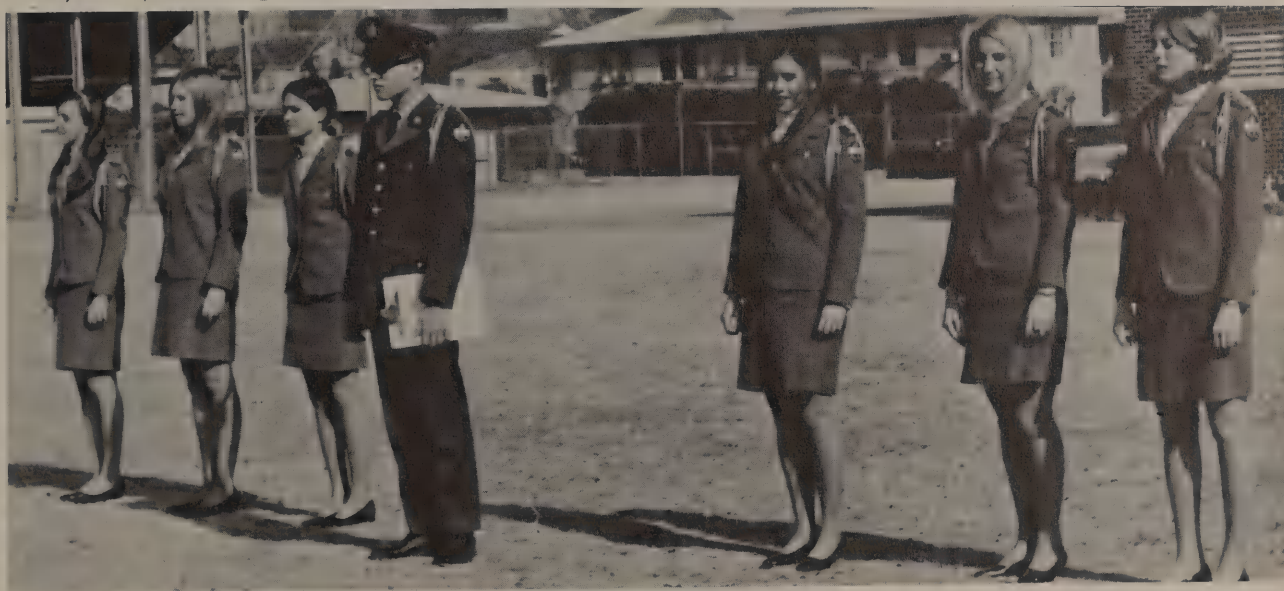

Dressed in bright uniforms decorated with the gold battalion staff cord and three ribbons, six Hi Park girls assumed the honorary rank of cadet colonel.

As emblems of the corps, the green ribbon symbolized the rifle team, the red the drill team, and the red, white, and blue all other cadets. Only the princesses and the two highest ranking officers wore the staff cord.

The Fifth ROTC Battalion chose Cindy Boone, Kathy Branch, Georgia Ann Fry, Carolyn Miller, Sally Nesbitt, and Martha Potts to represent and to support the corps as 1968-69 princesses.

Following the presentation of each princess to the tune of her favorite song, Frank Reedy crowned Kathy Branch 1968-69 Queen at the Regimental Ball held in the girls' gym February 15.

ACCOMPANIED BY ERIC Weir, Martha Potts, Sally Nesbitt, Kathy Branch, Georgia Ann Fry, Carolyn Miller, and Cindy Boone attend a weekly ROTC parade during activities period as one of their duties.

THE DESERTED auditorium is a quiet place for Rick Gray to review for a test.

This was the year when classes competed for the spirit award, with sophomores exhibiting super enthusiasm and the senior boys rallying to form spirit lines for the football team at pep rallies.

CLASSES

Senior Class Elects Officers in January

Accepting the challenges of school leadership, the 1968-1969 seniors set an example of responsible participation for underclassmen.

Seniors joined clubs, engaged in varsity sports, and enthusiastically promoted school spirit. School dress codes, improvement in social functions and better pupil-teacher relations concerned the class as seniors served on the HP Improvement Committee.

Exhibiting evidence of scholastic achievement, the senior class produced nine National Merit semifinalists and 19 recipients of National Merit Letters of Commendation. Mary Helen Gray represented the seniors as winner of a National Council of Teachers of English Achievement Award, and Don Sillers received a runner-up certificate.

Ninety-two of the 477 seniors participated in accelerated courses. Fifteen boys enrolled in the new major works physics course, and six seniors joined the juniors in the major works chemistry class.

In January, the class began preparations for graduation by electing officers. President Gary Powell conducted the Honors Day Assembly and Baccalaureate Service and introduced the speaker at Commencement. Vice-President Bobby Crotty assisted Gary in his duties.

Class secretary Libby Edwards organized the social calendar, and treasurer Sally Slaughter solved financial matters. The seniors chose history teacher and head basketball coach Mr. Robert Snowden class sponsor for 1969, his second year at HP.

ASPIRING SKATERS BETSY Bland, Anne O'Donnell, Carolyn Miller, and Lanetta Hares wonder how to acquire Peggy Fleming's grace.

With free weekends proving abundant, the legendary dateless senior girls of Highland Park turned to jobs and parties to occupy the months between the two Hi-Lite dances.

For employment, baby sitting, and salesclerking took top priority. Girls spent wages on records, clothes for college wardrobes, or such popular movies as Romeo and Juliet.

Spring luncheons, teas, and slumber parties encouraged gossiping and weight gain. To combat any figure problems, girls devised new forms of exercise or revived old ones. Bike-riding, ice-skating, and jogging became means for toning up and trimming down the accumulating pounds.

Pursuing individual interests, senior girls exhibited talents in varied fields. In the Dallas Ballet Theatre's production of Tchaikovsky's "Swan Lake" Marcella Shannon performed the lead role of Odette. With the 1973 Olympics as her goal, star acrobat Laurie Harris participated in tumbling and gymnastics competitions.

Pat DeCarmine represented Highland Park as an alto in the All-State Choir. As co-chairmen of the Spirit Committee, Brenda Cozby and Julie LeVelle worked with the cheerleaders and other senior girls to create spirit and to support the varsity teams. Their last year in high school, senior girls joined in many activities.

Spirited Senior Boys Still Follow Tradition

Traditional-style behavior characterized senior boys, as they escorted sophomore girls to all the school functions but still managed to attend games and support varsity teams.

After a slow start in exhibiting spirit at pep rallies, seniors changed their attitudes to add their booming voices to the cheers. With new guns acquired at Christmas, senior boys spent several weekends on hunting trips, usually leaving town the weekend of one of the two Hi-Lite dances.

In their spare hours, senior boys engaged in rough games of touch football. Clad in torn jeans and T-shirts or other ragged and exotic combinations, the boys played even in the coldest weather. Warmer days revealed new talents, as they participated in tennis, golf, and handball.

Faced with a lack of funds and the expenses of an approaching graduation, senior boys secured part-time jobs in grocery stores and gas stations.

ALIECE HELM HURRIES through the gate to see the kick-off of the Golden Avalanche.

Juniors Attend Sports Events, Back Scots

Well-adapted to the routine of Hi Park, juniors returned from summer jobs and vacations with a determination to demonstrate their spirit in the competition yell "Battle Cry."

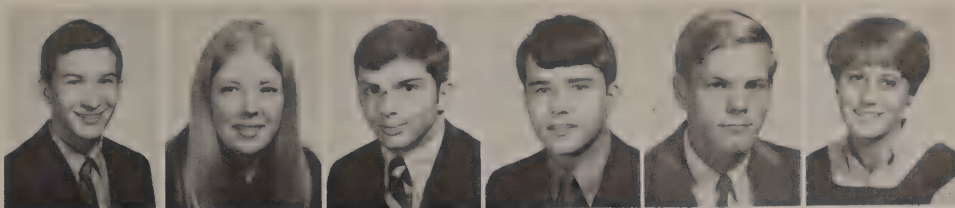

Contributing to varsity athletics, juniors comprised 30 per cent of the Golden Avalanche. Mark Aldredge, the only junior on the team to receive the Player of the Week Award, achieved city-wide recognition as a member of both the Dallas Morning News and the Dallas Times Herald All-District 7-AAAA teams. Just as athletes represented their school in sports events, Mary Ann Little and Mark Aldredge represented their class on the Student Council.

A typical HP junior encountered American history, geometry, American literature, and a foreign language in classes. Demonstrating the popularity of major-works and Advanced Placement courses, 26 per cent of the junior class participated in accelerated history, English, math, and chemistry classes. Despite their full academic loads, many juniors found time for such extracurricular activities as Student Council, publications staffs, choirs, and school clubs.

During the second semester, juniors began preparation for future educational plans as they confronted the rigorous National Merit Tests and College Entrance Exams. The arrival of senior rings marked the first sign of the fast-approaching end of school, when juniors would at last attain the long-coveted status of upper-classmen and became the school leaders in spring elections.

"BIG MAC" RECEIVES finishing touches from Mary Ann Little, Julie Halley, and Ellen Hunt before the pep rally.

SOPHOMORES DAVID ELLIS and Patty Pierce stop for a moment of quiet conversation in the HP halls.

Rousing Spirit Wins Sophs Spirit Award

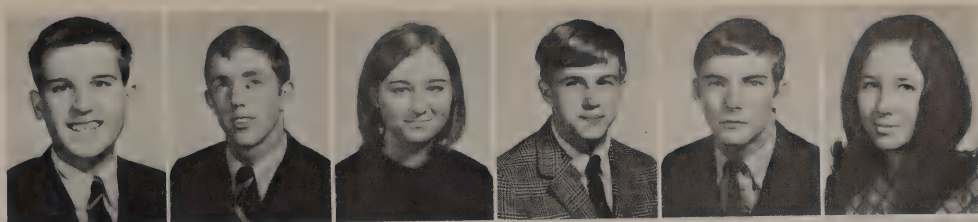

Demonstrating their loyalty to the Scots from the very beginning, the 1968-69 sophomores won the first spirit award of the year for their enthusiastic cheering at the Irving MacArthur pep rally.

Throughout the year, outstanding sophomores led their class in the varied activities of the school. Serving as Round Table members were Robert Gross, Robin Rees-Jones, Lisa Short, and Ann Wasson. The ROTC elected Georgia Ann Fry as the only sophomore princess. Marlene McLain and accompanist Lydia Sherwin sang in the Highlandaires choir.

Sophomore athletes made significant contributions to Highland Park sports. Frank Joiner represented his class on the 1968 varsity football team. In November Bobby Hagerman entered the National Junior and Boys' Sixteen Indoor Tennis Championship. Sophomores composed the greater part of the "B" football team, consisting of 54 players and six managers, the largest group in four years.

Algebra, English, a foreign language, and either biology or world history comprised a typical sophomore course load. This year, 98 sophomores participated in the major-works program, including math, English, and biology. The 13 students in the new accelerated biology class had the opportunity to study in greater depth the topics covered in the regular biology course.

FROM THE SIDELINE, Bobby Crotty and Steve Boultinghouse watch a Scot offensive charge.

This was the year when footballers shocked predictions by compiling the best season record in five years and the Blue Wave overwhelmed the University of Texas at Arlington freshmen in a dual meet.

Compiling an 8-2 season record, the best for a Highland Park team in five years, the Golden Avalanche finished only one-half game out of first place in District 7-A AAA.

In a promising 35-8 victory over Fort Worth Paschal, defensive back Bobby Halpin set the pace for the '68 season by returning the opening kickoff 93 yards for a touchdown. Displaying prominent defensive efforts, Johnny Koons and Pud Germany intercepted three passes. Quarterback Tommy VanAmburg and junior tailback Mark Aldredge, the game's leading rusher with 134 points in 17 carries, led the offensive charge.

The Scots' first defeat came in a high-scoring duel with Irving. Although Highland Park jumped to a 21-0 lead in the first quarter, costly errors enabled All-District quarterback Alan Lowery to lead his team to a 29-point output in the second half, leaving the score 36-27, Irving.

Golden Avalanche Beats Arlington, Carrollton

GUARD BOBBY MADELY leads the way for tailback Mark Aldredge to gain much-needed yardage against Irving MacArthur.

The Scots retaliated with a shutout over Irving MacArthur the following week. Aldredge, the work-horse of the evening, carried 32 times for 215 yards and scored twice. Yielding only six yards rushing and three first downs, the HP defense assured the Scots of a 14-0 win.

Gaining momentum, the Golden Avalanche defeated the Sherman team 27-7. The Scot defense tallied the first six when safety Mike Winniford blocked a punt and alert guard Bobby Crotty fell on the ball in the end zone. Jay Windrow added the conversions to two touchdowns by Aldredge and one by VanAmburgh.

A 50-yard touchdown run by junior Pud Germany proved the difference in the Scot's upset over Arlington. Entering the contest undefeated, the highly rated Colts tallied 20 points in the first half while holding the Blue and Gold scoreless. But the Scots emerged from the lockerroom to play an inspired second half. Scores by Ben Stowers and Johnny Koons and determined defensive efforts preceded Germany's winning run, and Windrow's conversion pushed the score to 21-20.

Blue and Gold Finish Second in District;

The following week, HP suffered its second and final defeat of the season. A pass from Van Ambaugh to wingback Jimmy Holmes accounted for the Scots' sole touchdown in their 16-7 loss to arch-rival Garland.

Highland Park rebounded in the next game to beat Mesquite 14-8. Germany led the rushing game with 104 yards, scoring both Scot touchdowns.

Stretching their district record to 2-1, the Scots beat R. L. Turner 24-21. A consistent ground game, which picked up 350 yards, and an erratic passing game led to the HP victory. Leading rusher Aldredge gained 254 yards in 41 carries and scored twice. A 42-yard pass from Van Amburgh to Koons in the last three minutes clinched the win.

The next week, the Blue and Gold challenged the Denton Broncos, possessors of a seven-game winning streak. Outstanding efforts by the Scot offensive line, led by Tom Brosseau, Bob Madeley, Hunter Brown, John Wager, and Paul Flowers, crushed Denton's hopes for eight consecutive victories. Capitalizing on a successful onside kick and a recovered fumble, the Blue and Gold won 14-0.

The Scots entered their final game with possession of the district crown still in contention. Playing with a skill belying their 4-5 season record, the South Garland Colonels challenged Highland Park throughout the game. With the Scots holding a 15-7 lead with 3:23 left in the game, South Garland gained possession of the ball and drove 56 yards to score. But the Scot defense, stopping the Colonels one yard short of a tie, held the final score at 15-13 and secured a win.

FIRST-DOWN YARDAGE is the only thought on tailback Mark Aldredge's mind as he struggles through the Garland defensive.

Under the direction of new head coach "Bo" Snowden, the Highland Park basketball team, including only four senior members, rallied to a season of 16-14.

Behind the guidance and encouragement of co-captains Corley Barnes and Deetz Shepherd, the Scot roundballers compiled a 12-7 record in pre-season play and received first place in the Highland Park Tournament with victories over Hillcrest and Kimball. Traveling to the Austin Tournament, the Plaidmen defeated Austin McCallum 55-50 and College Station A and M Consolidated 64-37 but fell to Corpus Christi Miller 71-66. In the Dr Pepper Tournament, the roundballers won their first two games, defeating Jesuit 60-58 and W. T. White 67-41, but lost to Thomas Jefferson 57-53 in the semi-final round. Corley Barnes received a berth on the All-Tournament Team.

Roundballers Take Hi Park Tourney

In the opening district game, superior shooting by the strong Garland Owls defeated the Scots 59-50. The roundballers then fell to the Denton Broncos 67-51 and the R. L. Turner Lions, the 7-A AAAA champions, 61-54. The Blue and Gold rebounded to win the following two games, overcoming Mesquite 60-54 and nipping South Garland 54-52.

Opening the second round of district play, Highland Park was soundly defeated by Garland 81-57. In a close game, the Scots battled the Denton Broncos to lose 65-58. Boasting superior height, the R. L. Turner Lions bombed the Scots 71-51. The HP team edged Mesquite 55-54 in the final four seconds in the game but yielded the season's last game to South Garland 73-62.

COACH CECIL HOLMES and 1969 Baseball captain Larry Redden.

With marathon four-hour practice sessions, coach Cecil Holmes' 1969 batmen began preparation early in February for their first contest less than a month away.

Five returning lettermen formed the backbone of the baseball team. Senior Chris Finlan and junior catcher Jerry Johnson bolstered the infield, and captain Larry Redden and junior Bill Dickenson strengthened the outfield.

Ted Case, Bill Dunlap, and Mike Liebrum completed the infield, and Jeff Goldat helped cover the outfield. Returning letterman Robert Sims provided substitute backing for Johnson as catcher. Supported by sophomore Dave Edwards, Chris Finlan and Bill Dickenson shared pitching duties for the Scots. Due to injury, letterman Larry Westerfield could not play.

Several February scrimmages with Hillcrest prepared the diamondmen for their first game March 1 with Bryan Adams. A full pre-season schedule, including games with Lake Highlands, Richardson, Irving, and Hillcrest, terminated in the first District 7-AAAA contest April 1 in Mesquite.

DURING AN afternoon workout, hurdler Chuck Hodge concentrates on improving form and increasing speed.

Aided by excellent weather, the HP track team began preparation in September for local meets. New head coach Jim Mouser directed the team in afternoon and Saturday workouts.

Dual meets were held with Jesuit and Garland prior to the regular season. The Scot 440-yard relay team, composed of Pud Germany, Mark Aldredge, Mike Winniford, and Johnny Koons, scored victories in both meets. Koons and Germany tallied first places in the 100 and 220-yard dashes at Jesuit.

Led by tri-captains Joe Barnard, Bobby Halpin, and Mike Winniford, the 1969 Golden Flash faced a full schedule of eight Saturday meets. The team opened the season with the L. D. Bell Relays and then traveled to the Possum Kingdom, Carrollton, and Mesquite Relays. Scot cindermen also made showings in meets at Richardson, North Texas, and Jesuit. The season concluded with the District Meet in Denton April 11-12 and the Regional Meet in Fort Worth the following week.

New Coach Rebuilds Cross-Country Team

KEEPING UP WITH Charles Jordan gives Dan Yoder a real headache.

Coach Jim Mouser, in his first year at Highland Park, faced the difficult task of reorganizing the neglected cross-country track team.

Under his direction, the team operated as an individual team and not as a division of the track team, as in the past. Regular Saturday meets terminated with the State Meet in Austin in December.

Team members engaged in strenuous workouts during the sixth period and after school. The Scots traveled to White Rock Lake, Caruth Park, and Fritz Park to run over ten miles a day through fields, woods, and streams, the same terrain encountered at cross-country meets.

Although the '68 team lacked both talent and numbers, two members consistently performed well. Rick Glubber and Trigger Allen placed in the top twenty at the Richardson and Fort Worth meets. Glubber, Allen, Andy Knight, Dan Yoder, and Charles Jordan participated in the State Meet.

Schedule of Tournaments, District Games

To get in shape for the season, members of the tennis team ran sprints and laps every sunny afternoon after practice.

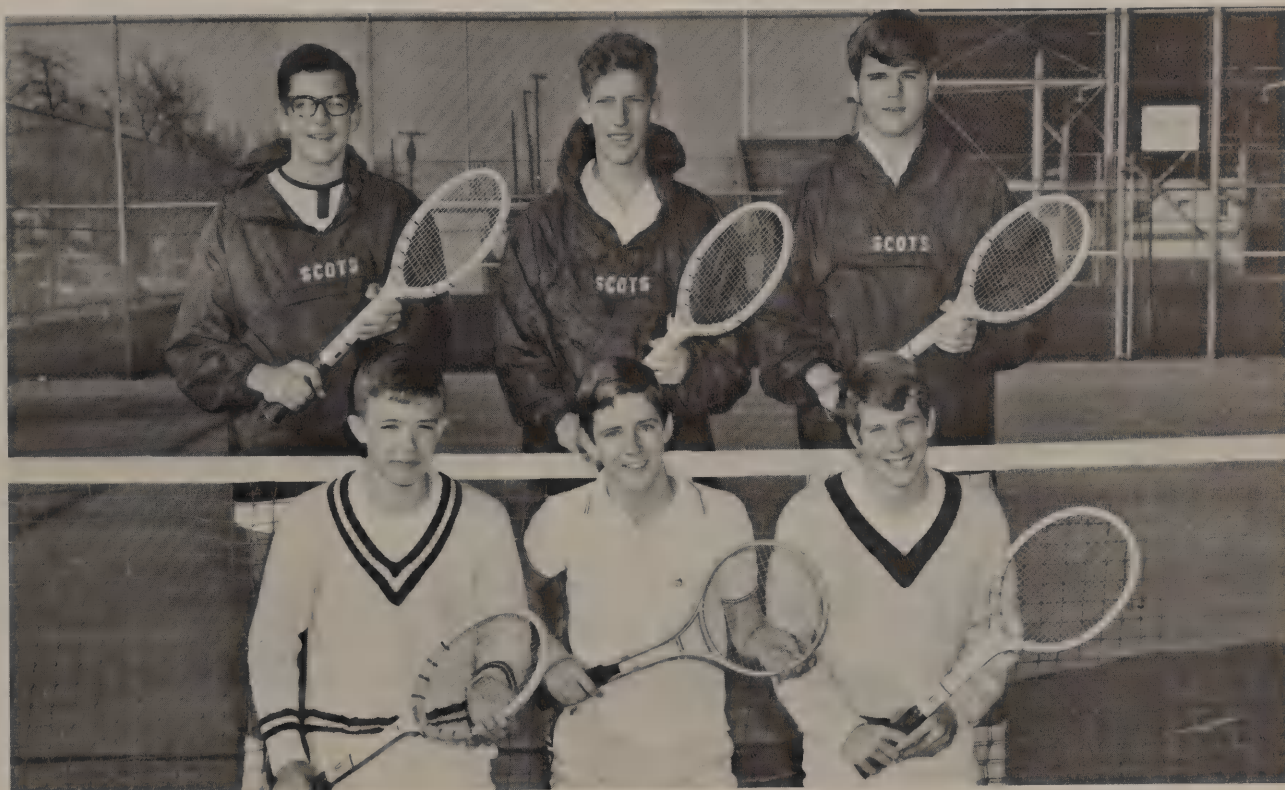

A round of pre-season tournaments with area high schools prepared the HP netters for the District Meet in April. In the Cotton Bowl Indoor Tournament at Market Hall, sophomore Bobby Hagerman and junior Ricky Clark reached the finals in the boys' sixteen-and-under doubles. Bobby Hagerman was a semi-finalist in boys' 16-and-under singles, and Cindy Bartholow and a partner from Cary Junior High were quarter-finalists in girls' 16-and-under doubles. Reaching the quarter finals in girls' 18-and-under doubles were seniors Missy Childs and Jo Carol LaBorde.

Coached by Mrs. Jewell Hodge, the team was headed by co-captains Missy Childs and Woody Anderson. Returning lettermen included Cindy Bartholow, Charlotte Davis, Jo Carol LaBorde, Ricky Clark, and Tiger Smyser, as well as the co-captains.

HP Golf Team Prepares for District Meet

FRONT ROW: J. Carter, E. Roberts, M. Varel, G. Strong.

Led by co-captains Jay Carter and Evan Roberts and coach Newman Casey, the 1969 golf team drilled daily at the Dallas Country Club in preparation for six area meets.

The linksmen opened the season with a seventh-place finish out of a field of 25 teams competing in the Northeast Invitational at San Antonio February 17. Lynn Newman and Rick Bauer made strong showings in the meet.

Chosen after run-offs, five golfers represented Highland Park at each tournament. Carter, Roberts, and Newman filled the top three spots, and Mark Guest, Rick Bauer, Mark Varel, and Gary Strong competed for the remaining two places.

Following the San Antonio meet, the team traveled to the Fort Worth, Austin, and Wichita Falls Invitationals. The linksmen finished the season with the Dallas Invitational and the District Meet at Brook Haven Country Club.

COACH NEWMAN CASEY and co-captains Jay Carter and Evan Roberts lead the golf team.

Tankers Take Second in UT Invitational

Renewing old rivalries in 1969, the HP Blue Wave battled for state supremacy with defending champion Houston Memorial. Coach Mike Sorrells hoped for the long-awaited victory at the State meet March 21-22 at the SMU Perkins Natatorium.

Tedious workouts before and after school prepared the Scot swimmers for the most difficult opponents, as they won dual meets with Thomas Jefferson, Sunset, San Antonio MacArthur, and San Antonio Roosevelt. In the first match of a series, the tankers defeated the University of Texas at Arlington freshmen while swimming the longer college distances. But in the return match, while swimming regulation high school distances, the UTA team broke HP's long string of dual meet victories.

In the two most important pre-State tournaments, the SMU Relays and the University of Texas Invitational, the Scots finished second behind traditional rival Houston Memorial.

Co-captains Mark Hughes and John Rubottom led the predominantly senior squad. Kevin Gray, Carter Tarrance, Ted Post, Hughes, and Rubottom all swam free style events. Rubottom also participated in the individual medley. Jay Little swam the breast stroke, and Hughes filled the back-stroke position for the Blue Wave.

MARK HUGHES and John Rubottom captain the '68-'69 Blue Wave.

Two New Coaches Join HP 'B' Teamers

Under the supervision of coaches "Red" Ellis and Cecil Holmes and new coaches Jim F. Dodson and Joe D. McKnight, the Scot "B" football team posted a 5-4 season record.

The "B" Plaidmen developed a strong, high-scoring offense which maintained a season average of 21 points per game, while the equally strong defense held their opponents to an average of only 15 points per game.

The Scots opened their season with two victories, bombing the Irving Tigers 46-6 and shutting out Irving MacArthur 21-0. The team's first loss of the season was to Sherman, 18-9. In a high-scoring game, the "B" teamers then fell to Arlington 43-29.

Confronted by arch-rival Garland, the Scots were soundly defeated in their first district game 28-6. The Blue and Gold broke their string of losses by nipping the Mesquite Skeeters 10-8. In one of their best team efforts, the Scots squeezed by the undefeated Carrollton Lions 20-14 and easily defeated the Denton Broncos 38-6 but lost the season finale to South Garland 14-6.

Compiling an impressive 22-7 season record, the sophomore "B" basketball team, under new head coach Joe D. McKnight, placed second in District 7-AAAA.

During pre-season play, the "B" teamers participated in three tournaments. The roundballers lost in the championship round to take second place in the W. T. White Tournament. At the Mesquite Tournament, the Scots fell in the opening round but retaliated to win the consolation prize. Defeating three teams, the Blue and Gold emerged with a first place in the McKinney Tournament.

The Scots opened district play with victories over Garland and Denton but lost their third game to the R. L. Turner Lions. The "B" teamers rebounded with a victory over Mesquite but were stopped the following week by South Garland. In the second round of district play, the roundballers lost to Denton and South Garland but defeated Garland, R. L. Turner, and Mesquite.

Some of the outstanding sophomore starters who helped compile the excellent record for the "B" team were John Fry, Chuck Hodge, Richard Huff, Guy Kerr, Mark Patterson, and Bo Williams.

Basketball Begins Intramural Season

Skilled members of the "B" basketball team and the Blue Wave dominated play in basketball and water polo, the two sports offered during the fall intramural season.

Each intramural competition began with the organization of teams either by a student or by a school association. These teams played games Tuesdays, Wednesdays, and Thursdays after school. Following several weeks of contests. Coach Floyd Hightower and other coaches associated with the program chose all-star teams to play in a season finale.

During basketball competition, 12 teams participated in games refereed by members of the varsity basketball squad. At the end of the tournament, coaches Hightower and "B1" Snowden selected all-star players from the 96 boys participating. The team consisting of senior Tommy Littlepage, junior Richard Millar and Doug Peabody, and sophomores Guy Kerr, Bowman Williams, and Mike Barnett won by a score of 58-41.

With 63 boys participating, a maximum of two members of the swimming team led each of nine water polo teams. The all-star team headed by Blue Wave members John Anderson and Kevin Gray was victorious in the last contest.

The spring intramural season featured fast-paced touch football action, volleyball, climaxed by a game with the GAA, and another round of water polo.

GAA Encourages Leadership, Participation

Offering recognition and incentive to athletically talented girls, the Girls Athletic Association promoted leadership in all areas of life.

Mrs. Gynne Manson and Miss Jayne Murchison selected GAA members from those girls who performed best in physical education classes and in after-school intramural games. The sports schedule of speedball, swimming, basketball, volleyball, and softball provided competition for the Blue and Gold GAA teams.

Indicating by the shape and color the sport and number of years of participation, patches were awarded to each girl. Members of the winning teams in each of the sports received gold charms.

In the two meetings of the year, the club elected officers, collected dues, and planned the annual dinner and swimming party.

OFFICERS Jerre Stalcup, Mary Lu Jordan, Diane Cory, Marty Wynne, and sponsors Miss Jayne Murchison and Mrs. Gynne Manson lead the activities of the Girls' Athletic Association.

GLOATING IN HER recovery, Nancy Thompson pivots away from opponent Diane Moore.

Getting in shape for the coming year of sports activities, girls enrolled in physical education classes began with exercises to tone up muscles.

A series of stretch and coordination routines composed the introductory fitness program. Girls received instruction in swimming fundamentals during the first three weeks of school.

Shouts of "Watch out! Dangerous kick!" filled the air during many exciting speedball games which opened the season's sports schedule.

With the advent of cooler weather, girls played tennisquits, a game requiring quick reactions and accurate aim. Enthusiastically applying the skills they had learned in classes to game situations, girls participated in basketball, the year's most popular sport.

Drills in volleyball fundamentals, such as spiking and set-ups, improved the girls' proficiency in class competitions. The spring schedule also included square dancing, baseball and swimming. These sports helped the girls to get ready for a summer of athletic activities.

Where do girls such as office workers and choir members go to get some exercise? They head to the girls' gym to take advantage of the after-school intramural sports program.

This program, organized to encourage individual development, included swimming, tenniquoits, basketball, volleyball, and softball. Student-organized teams competed in either Monday-Wednesday or Tuesday-Thursday leagues. Round-robin tournaments were held if only a few teams participated in a particular sport.

The time-honored rivalry persisted this year between the Green Shoes and the World Walkers, two self-perpetuating intramural teams with a 15-year history, with the Green Shoes emerging victorious in the basketball tournament. Girls who had maintained perfect attendance records in all the sports received medals at the end of the year.

THE STAGG RENZ INSURANCE AGENCY

STAGG RENZ, C.L.U., is truly a career, professional insurance agent! At the end of his sophomore year in college — he decided on a career of insurance underwriting. That was in the year 1940. He entered the University of Texas as a Junior — majoring in insurance. Of the some 15,000 students enrolled at the time, only ten were "insurance majors" — and Stagg Renz was one of them! Immediately after the end of WW II, on October 27, 1945, Stagg Renz organized his own Local Agency business in Dallas, Texas. He has attended the Insurance School in Hartford, Connecticut (1946) and subsequently completed a multitude of insurance "short courses" all over Texas. In 1954, he won the coveted Chartered Life Underwriter designation. From the beginning (1945) he has endeavored to serve his clientele as an "Insurance General Practitioner." Operating a true, multiple line insurance agency, representing the best known "brand" names among American companies, Stagg Renz serves his clients in the best traditions of the American Agency System. "YOU CAN BET ON STAGG RENZ for good insurance service!"

Why in the World Are You Going to College??!!

- . . . to get an education?
- . . . to have a good time?
- . . . to meet new people?
- . . . to find a husband?
- . . . OR to help change the world. That's right, to help change the world. We're with you, we don't like the world the way it is and we're doing something about it. The only way to change the world is to change the hearts of individual men. Jesus Christ claimed that He could change men.

We in Campus Crusade for Christ believe that the only solution to the world's problems is to introduce men into a personal relationship with Christ.

Campus Crusade for Christ is an inter-denominational student Christian movement active on some 450 campuses in the United States. Although not connected with Young Life we operate in the college sphere as Young Life does in High School.

Come to college with a purpose, come to have an impact for Christ. We invite you to join with us in helping to change this world by introducing men to Him.

Southland Life Agents have Hearts of Gold!

You know the kind of man we're talking about.

Some people refer to him as being the kind of person who'd give you the shirt off his back.

Or, as the kind of person who'd do anything in the world for you.

Or, as the kind of person who has a heart-well, a heart of gold.

These are the kind of people we look for and train to become Southland Life Agents. The kind of people who know there's more to being in the insurance business than just selling insurance.

That's why we say Southland Life Agents have hearts of gold.

Talk to one of them. You'll see.

my husband: the Mechanical Contractor

I've got a special problem. When a wife says her husband is an architect, lawyer, tailor, carpenter or buttonhole-maker . . . you know what he does, right off. But let me try it. "Bill's a Mechanical Contractor."

Now, either I get a funny, "Oh . . . that's nice" stare, or something like . . . "I see, he repairs cars." No one understands! So, three weeks ago, I got this beautiful idea of giving a public statement on the in's and out's of Bill's job. He thinks it's crazy. But here goes:

Basically, Bill's a piping contractor except more diversified. He installs plumbing and heating systems in commercial, institutional and industrial buildings. These systems are installed in large structures like shopping centers, bank buildings, hotels and motels, schools and colleges, and large industrial complexes such as LTV and

Texas Instruments. When one of these companies, or companies like them, expand or remodel their facilities, the plumbing, heating, and air conditioning systems need up-dating. Bill must be able to adapt and modernize systems to meet changing needs.

Besides plumbing, heating, and air conditioning, a Mechanical Contractor is concerned with process piping . . . even gets into refineries, special laboratories and hospitals. Bill's work is actually pretty vital. His contribution to a project can be as high as 40% of the total cost. For instance, if you're talking about a five million dollar hospital, he can be responsible for as much as two million dollars in installed systems. That is a lot of responsibility. As Bill says, "For that kind of an investment, everything better be working right when he's finished."

That, in a nutshell, is what a Mechanical Contractor is. Bless you for listening.

Published in the interest of mechanical contracting industry by the Dallas Chapter of American Society of Heating, Refrigerating and Air-Conditioning Engineers/Hugh M. Cunningham, President, 1968-69.

The co-editors would like to extend thanks to the many people who have helped in the production of the 1969 Highlander: to our staff, to Laughead's and to Gauss Photography. Mr. John Ramsey of Taylor Publishing Company has given valuable assistance. Special thanks go to the sponsors, Miss Diane Cook and Mr. Ogden Kidd.

Instant Replay 1969 . . .

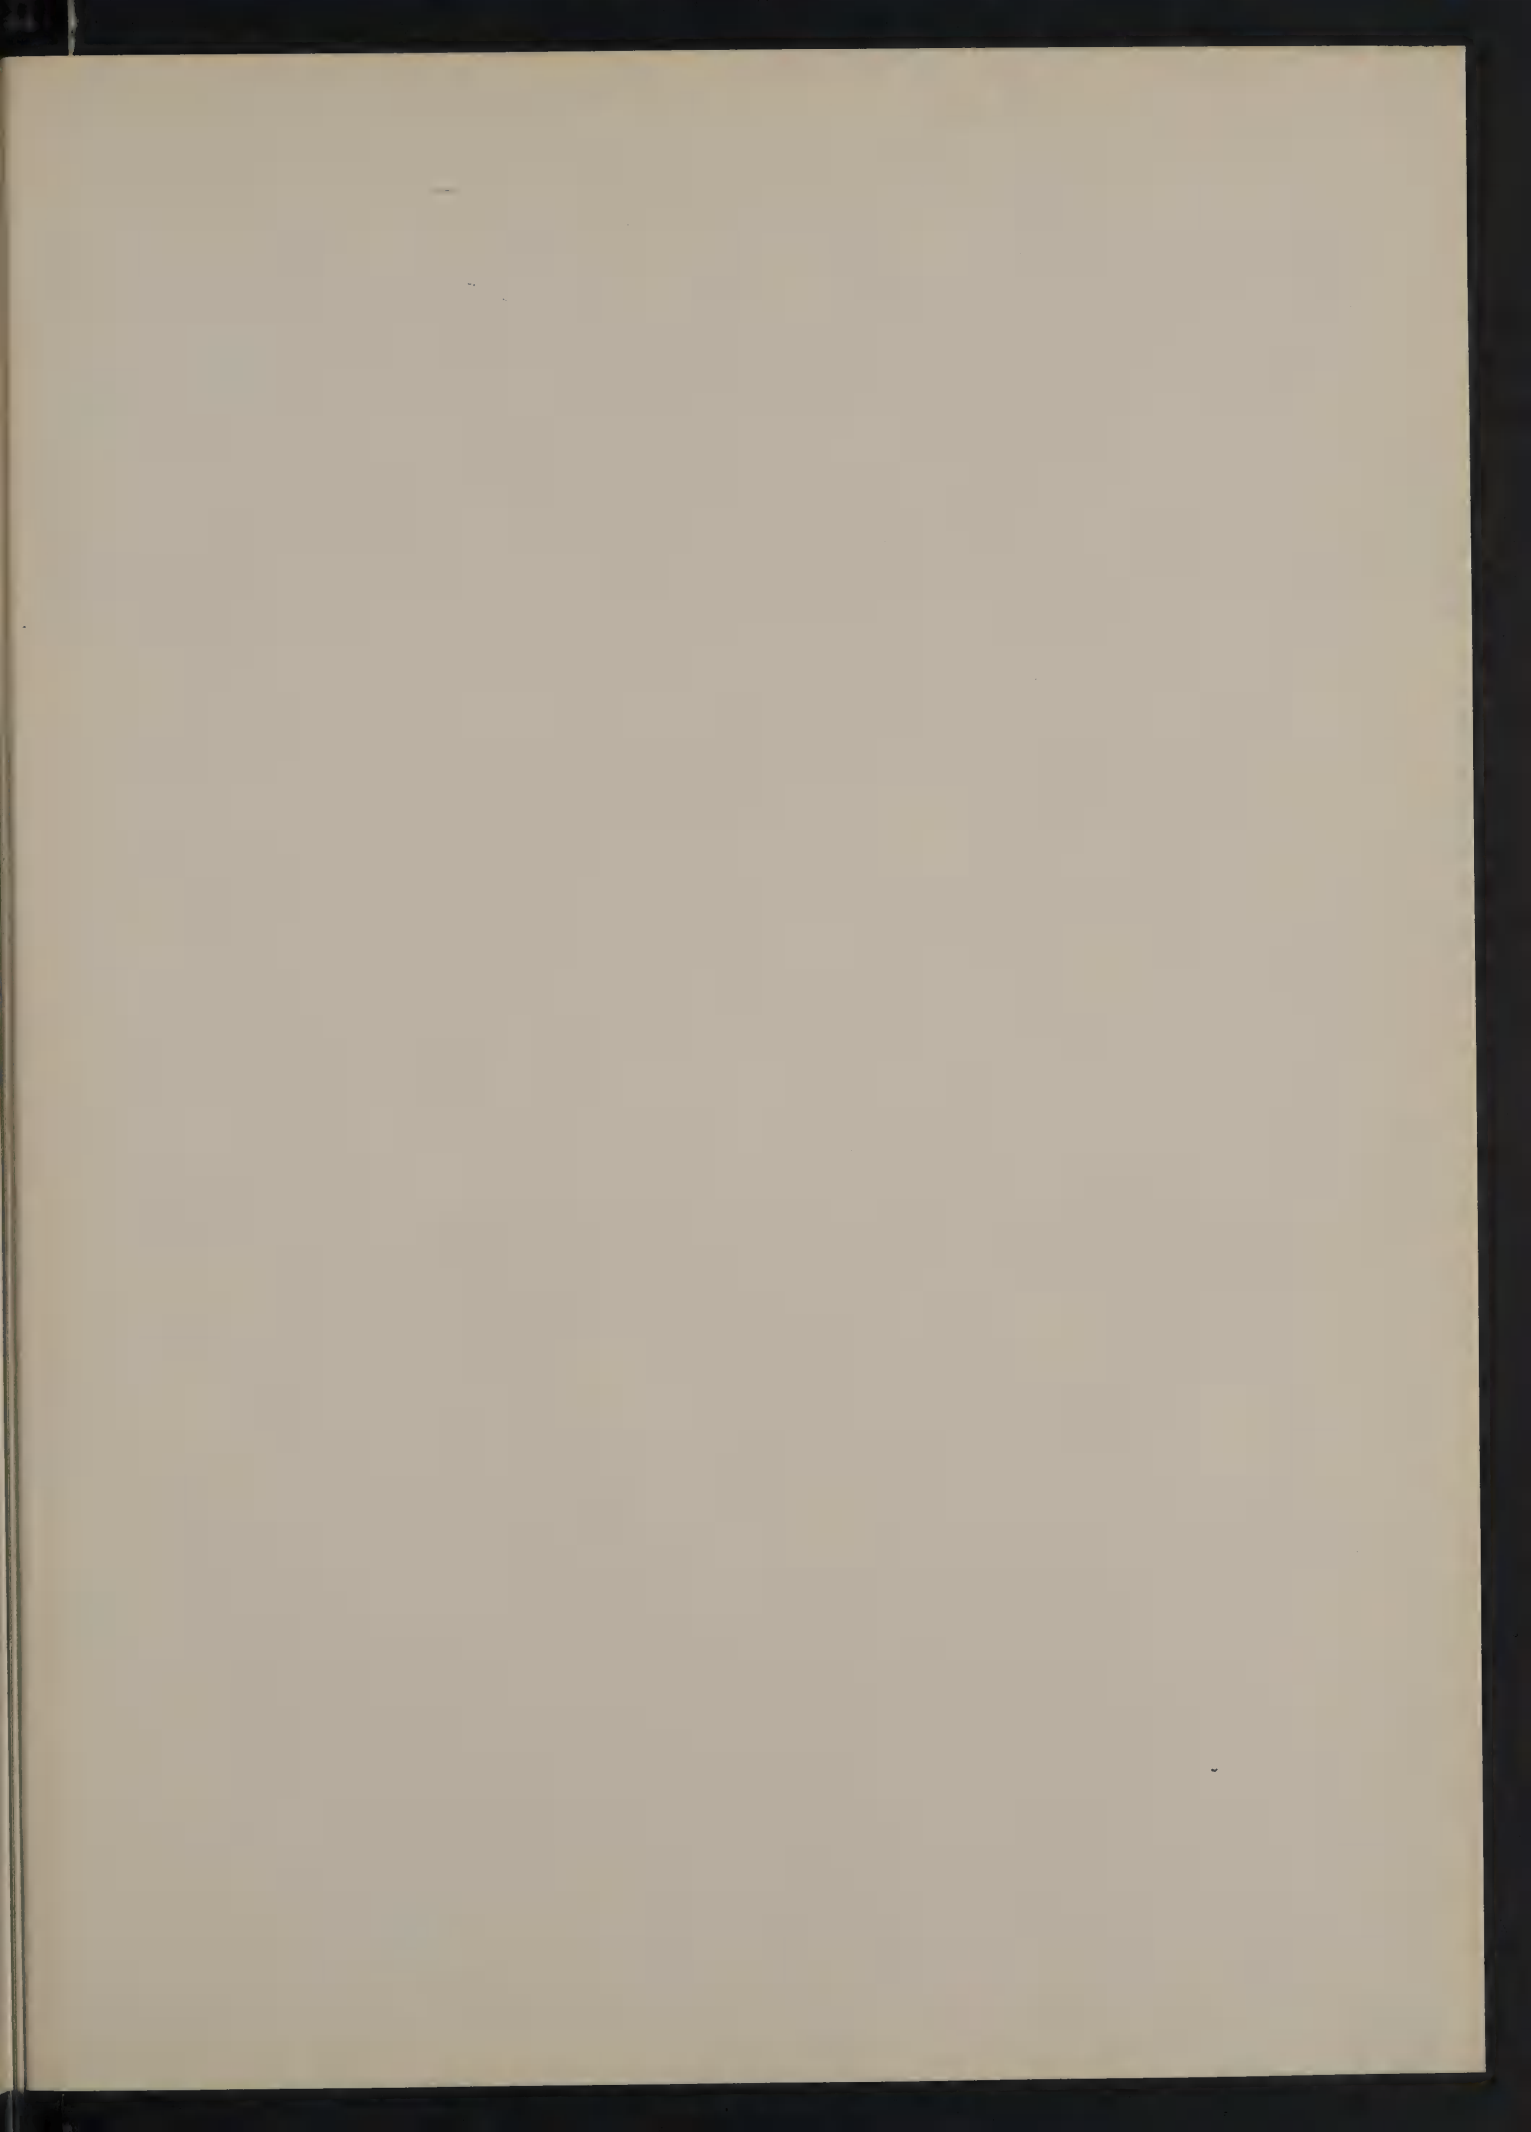

Although we have reached the end of a year, nothing ever ends when memories remain. Just as a movie-projector unfolds a series of images, the Highlander presents an instant replay of a year full of happenings. With the 1969 Highlander, we hope to provide the means to look back and remember meaningful events of the year when . . .

CO-EDITORS CINDY MORGAN AND Gail Obenchain and Business Manager Bobby Crotty come to the end of the reel for the 1969 Highlander.
